Sears Will Open Full-Line Store In Uptown Plaza

Another new large department store will be added to the ever-expanding Kingston Plaza Shopping Center in uptown Kingston.

Sears, Roebuck and Co., today announced it will open a new full-line department store at the Plaza. Donald J. Stewart, general manager of Sears retail stores in the Middle Atlantic States, said his firm had leased over 117,000 square feet of space on which to situate the new store.

Kingston Plaza, Inc., under the direction of Robert H. Herzog, president, will develop the property for Sears.

Will Start in Fall
Sears presently operates a catalog sales office in the Ulster Shopping Center, Route 9W. Construction work on the new store is expected to begin late this fall. A tentative opening date had not been set.

The company executive said that current and predicted population trends in the Catskill region of New York had indicated the need for a complete department store offering area residents a diversified range of merchandise and services.

Will Employ Hundreds
As the primary city within this vital growth area, Stewart said Kingston was a logical spot for Sears to expand its retail operations in the state. Other Sears stores are now under construction in Colonie, Lockport and White Plains.

"Sears is delighted to be locating a new store in Kingston," Stewart said. "Our presence should benefit the community substantially in terms of employment and tax revenue. Hundreds of people must be drawn from the Kingston area in order to run our store. For our customers we will offer an attractive and modern shopping facility as we are capable of designing."

"In it we will carry extensive assortments of wearing apparel, home furnishings, appliances, hardware, home improvement merchandise and many specialty items."

50 Departments
Sears new store will contain 50 individual selling departments. There will be 49,000 square feet of indoor sales area and 4,800 square feet of outdoor space for garden supplies and nursery products.

An important adjunct to the sprawling one-level retail complex will be Sears Automotive Service Center, a ground and basement level building containing 24,000 square feet. The center will be able to service up to

County Board Votes On Lights, Heating

The Board of Supervisors will again try to alleviate the air pollution problem in East Kingston near the Hudson Cement Corp. on North Street.

Board Chairman Robert F. Phinney (R-Kingston) appointed a special committee at Thursday night's meeting after board members heard a list of complaints from two East Kingston residents on their problems with dust and noise from the plant. At least one supervisor accepted an invitation from one of the residents to make a personal tour of homes in that area to see the problems first hand.

Supervisor Irving Bell (D-Sixth Ward) agreed to meet Mrs. Ella Clausi Saturday morning for an inspection tour. In other business at last night's regular session, the board:

Lights for Rt-28

1. Agreed to share the cost of maintaining new traffic lights to be installed on Route 28 at the traffic circle, with the Town of Ulster, in an area which has been dubbed the "Black Hole of Calcutta" because of its lack of lighting.

2. Rejected for the third time a resolution that would have provided for the design and development of an oil heating system at the Ulster County Community College.

3. Voted to table a resolution calling for the issuance of a $45,000 capital note for the site development at the County Office Building, apparently to defer action until an alternate plan could be studied.

4. Voted to demolish the former County Health Department Building at 15 Main Street to make way for the installation of blacktop and parking meters for off-street parking.

5. Withdrew a motion that would have authorized the purchase of an all-wheel drive truck from the Syracuse Truck Sales Corp. for $22,600, because advertisement of bids had been published in only one newspaper.

6. And scheduled a public hearing 3 p.m. Aug. 27 in the Supervisors' Chambers on the tentative budget of the Ulster County Community College for the fiscal year beginning Sept. 1.

Not on Agenda

The East Kingston smoke and dust abatement problem wasn't on the meeting agenda, but Mrs.

Clausi and Lawrence McCauley were allowed to speak when Supervisor Alexander J. Banyo (R-Ulster) asked that the two be designated spokesmen for a delegation from East Kingston who attended the meeting.

Mrs. Clausi extended an invitation to all 33 members of the Board of Supervisors to "see for yourself" the East Kingston area conditions as a result of the cement plant operation. She said that it appeared that the County Board of Health's "hands are tied," and that it appeared that their supervisor (Banyo) "can't get anywhere either."

Mrs. Clausi said that the sale value of the homes are depleted to about a third of their actual value as a result of the plant conditions, "but we don't want to move and we shouldn't be forced to move." She said "You can't get $3,000 for the best home in East Kingston."

McCauley said that numerous residents complained of noise from trucks being operated at night and coal being unloaded at

Children's Shoe Store Opens in Wall St. Locale

Opening of a new children's shoe store at 309 Wall Street in Uptown Kingston was announced today by Robert J. Kreines, well-known local shoe merchant.

The store, which will feature Child Life shoes and fitting service, will officially open Thursday, Aug. 19.

Kreines, a resident of Kingston for the past 29 years, said the accent would be on ease and relaxation in the new store, located between the Nekos Pharmacy and Woolworth's, in the uptown section of Kingston.

In the past, Robert J. Kreines has been associated with Bergdorf-Goodman, Saks Fifth Ave. and, more recently operated his own store in Kingston at 280 Fair Street, where he featured the Child Life line of footwear along with shoes for adults.

Resnick Office Says Clausi Out-of-Date About Patronage

In a reprimanding tone, John Logan, district representative of Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick of Ellenville (D-28th District), today castigated Thomas Clausi, Democratic committeeman, third election district, Town of Ulster for his Thursday statement regarding the procedure of doling out patronage.

Logan said he was astounded by the statement and accused Clausi of being "oriented to a political philosophy that went out of style decades ago."

The statement follows:

"I was truly astounded to read of Mr. Clausi's statement in last night's Freeman."

Mr. Clausi has not only revealed himself to be totally uninformed about the workings of his party and town committee, but oriented to a political philosophy that went out of style decades ago. Mr. Clausi should know that a modern party exists on things other than patronage.

"If he had been sensible enough to take a check with his town chairman, who happened to also be his brother, he would know that the town chairman was consulted on the appointments in question.

"Does Mr. Clausi expect us to call each of several hundred committeemen in the county for each recommendation? If he does not even care enough about his party to work through the town chairman, we would welcome his withdrawal from the committee and the congressman's campaigns in the future."

"I respect the help of the committeemen and believe that a disruptive influence, such as Mr. Clausi obviously is, is better off not working in the committee."

"I might point out that if it had not been for the efforts of Congressman Resnick to have the Robert Fulton Commemorative stamp issued in this district, these temporary postal jobs would not have been available. When he (the congressman) fought for the stamp, he did not know there would be any of these part-time jobs available, nor did he seek any patronage. Indeed, he honestly feels that in order to improve our postal system, a system must be worked out to remove these jobs from

Comedian Shot in Coast Riot

Gregory's Injury Minor; 72 Jailed

By ROBERT W. COOKE

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Rioters fought police on the streets of Los Angeles' South Side today with guns, rocks and fire. Negro comedian Dick Gregory, hit by a bullet, was among 100 persons wounded.

Police jailed 72 rioters in the second night of violence along Central Avenue in the city's Negro district. More than 700 officers enforced a brief calm at midnight. Then, before dawn, mobs filled the streets again in an outbreak of burning, shooting and looting.

Motorists Get Warning

Gunfire erupted just before Gregory, 32, had urged a throng of 500 Negroes to return to their homes.

Outbreaks of violence continued elsewhere in the area. Police warned motorists, "particularly Caucasians," to stay out of the section today.

Gregory, a $2,500-a-week night club entertainer, has been traveling the nation to assist in the civil rights movement since 1963. He said the shooting was directed at the police, not at him. Doctors at Central Receiving Hospital termed his injury minor.

He was hit in the left thigh by a small-caliber bullet as he stood amid the battle-scarred scene of rioting — the Watts district of Los Angeles.

Buildings and a lumberyard were set ablaze in Watts early today as rioting renewed in ferocity after tapering off at midnight.

In Mediator Role

Police said Gregory was attempting to mediate between police and rioters.

He was hit as he stood in what police called a no man's land — Central and Imperial Highway. A liquor store, a drive-in restaurant and a small clinic were burned to the ground. A nearby lumber yard was set ablaze.

Firemen, attempting to answer the calls, were turned back by barrages of windshield-shattering bricks and bottles.

Don Smith, chairman of the Los Angeles chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality, said Gregory was urging rioters to go home when a burst of about 20 shots came from the mob.

"Dick was talking to a group of people, telling them that their wives and children were in danger, when guns were fired from across the street," Smith said. Gregory fell, got up, then continued talking to the rioters, Smith said.

The scene of the rioting is a normally quiet area deep in the heart of what civil rights leaders have referred to as the "black ghetto."

2 May Have Blocked Small Escape Opening at Site

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Force Secretary Eugene M. Zuckert says two men trying desperately to escape in Monday's missile silo explosion at Searcy, Ark., may have blocked a narrow opening and prevented some of the 53 victims from getting out.

In a report to President Johnson, made public Thursday by the White House, Zuckert said: "A number of men had attempted to escape by the emergency ladder which apparently was blocked by two men who became jammed together in trying to pass simultaneously through a restricted area on the

He Would Hit Peking If Red China Troops Move Into Viet War

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, said today the United States should be prepared to hit Peking with everything in its arsenal if Red Chinese troops move into Viet Nam.

Rivers said, however, he was not advocating a shoot-first nuclear attack on Communist China.

"What I am saying," the South Carolina Democrat declared in an interview, "is that Americans must be prepared to make the decision to attack Mao Tse-tung's homeland if Mao's forces start moving."

"If his legions start moving," Rivers added, "you're not going to stop them with a pogon."

The United States would have to hit them "with every single, solitary gadget in our arsenal," he said.

The Southerner is not an administration spokesman on military affairs, but because of his position as Armed Services Committee Chairman his views attract wide attention.

Thus his speech Wednesday night in Hartford, Conn., which some interpreted as suggesting a preventive attack on Red China's nuclear installations, rang bells in the Capitol.

While Rivers sat in silence, Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif.,

noted in the House Thursday that Rivers had been quoted as saying, "should we use our atomic power to wipe out Red China's atomic capability? We must get ready to do this very thing if we want to stop Red China."

If Rivers said that, Edwards declared, "the gentleman has suggested a very dangerous policy for our country."

In the text of his speech, Rivers said "even if we win the war in South Viet Nam, I cannot help but think that we are merely postponing the final victory of Red China — unless the nation is prepared to risk the possible consequences of destroying her

First Time in History

Copters Land Marines For Assault at Night

NAM YEN, South Viet Nam (AP) — Under the light of a full moon and aerial flares, a fleet of helicopters landed U.S. Marines in Elephant Valley for another search for Viet Cong guerrillas.

The Marines said it was the first large-scale night helicopter assault in history.

The choppers flew through a mountain pass at midnight to Nam Yen, a village 12 miles northwest of the Da Nang Air Base. As many as 500 hard-core Viet Cong sometimes operate in the area.

Make Contact
Several bursts of fire sent tracer bullets through the night as the Marines made light contact with a small Viet Cong force. One dead guerrilla was found at dawn. About 20 prisoners were taken. The operation continued.

Minutes after midnight, a company of Marines landed at each of two villages straddling the Ca De River. The Marines' faces were blakened with a wax-base camouflage makeup that turned to a sickly gray-green by morning.

Quick Operation

Flares were dropped for only a few minutes — just long enough for the helicopters to unload and move out again.

Lt. Col. David Clemente of Jacksonville, N.C., commander of the 2nd Battalion, 3rd Marines, organized the operation after an enemy document was captured. It warned the Viet Cong fighters to clear out of villages before dawn because

"the Marines always attack after first light."

Col. Clemente said the idea for "Operation Midnight" came from his operations officer, (Continued on Page 6, Col. 2)

Dr. King Plans Letters to Push Talks, End War

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., 1964 Nobel Peace Prize winner, said today he is contemplating writing to the opposing sides in the Viet Nam conflict to negotiate and end the struggle's "cycle of mistrust, violence and war."

Aware of Act
And, King said, if this violates a federal regulation called the Logan Act, "it's very unfortunate."

The act forbids private citizens—without White House permission—from negotiating directly with heads of foreign governments.

King said he is aware of the act, but that his letters to the government heads would not constitute negotiating but attempts "to get those involved to negotiate."

He said the letters would be sent in two or three weeks.

Anthony Costanzi Submits $476,145 Bid on Water Job

Bids for a water system improvement project estimated to upwards of $400,000 were received Thursday night by the water board and are to be studied and tabulated.

The Anthony Costanzi Corp., of Kingston, which submitted a bid of $476,145, was the lowest of eight bidders.

Bids were received also for the purchase of a maintenance department truck, purchase of a new addressograph machine was approved, and the board referred to the Common Council's finance committee the results of its discussion of proposed enlargement of the Cooper Lake dam and use of the Sawkill watershed.

Edmund T. Cloonan, water department superintendent, comparing this drought year with that of 1957, reported a drastic drop in use of water this year between May 1 and Aug. 1.

In 1957, he said, the city used almost 600 million gallons of water in the three months compared to 375 million gallons for the period in 1965.

Storage at Cooper Lake, he noted, was at 86 per cent of capacity as of Aug. 1, even though rainfall was again below average for the fourth consecutive month this year.

Cooper Lake storage is now 4.60 feet below spillway level compared to 6.7 feet down a year ago. July brought only 2.58 inches of rain compared to an average of 4.37 inches.

Cumulative rainfall for the year, to date, was reported at 18.07 inches compared to the average of 26.81. The 1964 cumulative for the period was 20.47 inches.

Other bids on the water system improvement project which calls for replacement and general improvement of many water lines, were:

V. J. Costanzi, Poughkeepsie, $661,685; Ciccone & Son Inc., Fishkill, $484,323; R. Zoppo Co. Inc., Norwood, Mass., $563,029; Shanahan Construction Co. Inc., Ellenville, 777,165; Underground Construction Co. Spring Valley, $537,470; Bancker Construction Corp. Manhasset, L. I., $517,067; 50; Belloni Bros. Construction Co., Yonkers, $532,715.50.

Casualties In Ground, Air Forays

200 Sorties Flown Against Red Areas

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Vietnamese government forces today claimed a toll of about 250 Viet Cong after pinning down a Viet Cong concentration in the Mekong Delta 96 miles southwest of Saigon.

Vietnamese reports said 154 Viet Cong were killed in heavy ground fighting and another 100 were estimated killed by air strikes. Government casualties were reported light.

'Pretty Good Estimate'
U.S. military sources said they considered the Vietnamese figures "pretty good" estimates, although there apparently was no complete body count.

The major fighting came Thursday afternoon during a government operation 15 miles southwest of Can Tho. Taking part in the sweep through the canal-laced, rice paddy area were army ranger, armored and regional force personnel accompanied by U.S. advisers.

U.S. spokesmen said the force pinned the Viet Cong down on a wide front. Helicopters lifted in ranger units to cut off the guerrillas.

U.S. and Vietnamese air force planes flew 38 sorties against the Viet Cong, spokesmen said, and forward air controllers estimated 70 buildings were destroyed and about 40 others damaged.

Duc Co-Pleiku Quiet

A U.S. military spokesman said no further action had been reported in the Duc-Co-Pleiku area in the central Viet Nam highlands since the Viet Cong hit the Special Forces camp at Duc Co with 10 rounds of mortar fire during the night. He said there were no casualties reported from the mortar fire.

Vietnamese elements were reported moving along route 19 between Pleiku and Duc Co without making contact with the Communists.

American troops, flown in Tuesday and Wednesday as reinforcements, were said to be in operational positions but there had been no major contact (Continued on Page 8, Col. 2)

Water District For 8 Towns Is Voted in Dutchess

A proposal to create a part-county water district at an estimated cost of $27 million, to serve eight townships in Dutchess County, on Thursday was overwhelmingly approved by voters in six of the eight towns.

Town of Hyde Park and Pleasant Valley indicated opposition to the water district project. Approving the plan by a large plurality were the towns of Poughkeepsie, Fishkill, Red Hook, Wappinger, East Fishkill and LaGrange.

Supervisor Donald J. McDonald, co-chairman of the Dutchess County Water Agency, told The Freeman the proposition was passed favorably by a plurality of 2,890 votes. McDonald said the new district will start selling water through the new county water system by July 1967.

Signatures Due Today

McDonald reported that he expects to sign the necessary documents sometime today, officially creating the part-county water district.

Plans are progressing to lay intake pipes, construct a water purification plant and lines for distribution of water to district consumers.

MacDonald said applications will be sent immediately to the Water Resources Commission for permission to tap the Hudson River and to the Department of Audit and Control for approval of the water district.

"We don't anticipate any difficulty with either agency," McDonald said. "We already have filed master plans of the project with each agency, and they (Continued on Page 8, Col. 4)

Medicare and Social Security

What It Costs Everybody

By JOHN TROAN
NEA Special Writer

As Social Security benefits increase, so does the tax that makes them possible.

When the program started in 1937, the Social Security tax for workers was one per cent on the first $3,000 earned. By 1965, it had risen to 3% per cent on the first $4,800.

Effective Jan. 1, 1966, it will be 4 1/2 per cent on the first $6,600 a year. And the tax is scheduled to go up, step by step, six more times before it crests in 1987 at almost 5 1/2 per cent on the first $6,600 a year.

This is the tax rate for ordinary wage earners. In each case, it is matched by the employer. For the self-employed, the tax rate for 1966 is set at 6 3/20 per cent on the first $6,600 of net earnings (compared to 5 2/5 per cent on the first $4,800 in 1965).

The rate for the self-employed will rise in six additional stages to a peak in 1987 of 7 4/5 per cent on the first $6,600 of net earnings.

Thus the maximum Social Security tax for an ordinary worker will rise from $174 in 1965 and $277.20 in 1966 to $372.90 in 1987. For the self-employed, the maximum will go up from $259.20 in 1965 and $405.90 in 1966 to $514.80 in 1987.

Some of the increase will finance the health benefits being extended to persons past 65 through the so-called Medicare program.

The Medicare portion of the Social Security tax will range from a little over one-third of one per cent in 1967.

This means the most any individual will have to pay for Medicare in 1966 will be $23.10 (an average of about $1.93 a month). In 1987, the maximum "Medicare tax" will be $52.80 (which comes to $4.40 a month).

This is to pay for the basic health benefits — hospital care, nursing-home care and certain types of care rendered in a patient's own home. The supplemental benefits, which are optional for persons past 65, will cost an individual $3 a month in the beginning.

The Medicare money goes into a special health fund. The rest of the tax is divided between two other Social Security funds. One (which gets most of the money) provides retirement and survivors' benefits; the other, disability benefits.

Practically everybody who works is covered by Social Security. The last of the big "hold-outs"—self-employed physicians—will pay Social Security taxes for the first time (on this year's earnings) when they file their 1965 income tax returns next year. Physicians who work for someone else (such as "company doctors") have been under Social Security since 1937.

Effective Jan. 1, 1966, medical and dental interns also come under Social Security. These are doctors getting on-the-job training before entering practice.

Starting with 1966, the rules governing earnings of self-employed farmers are changed. The new rules for such farmers read like this:

If you gross $2,400 or less in a year, you may report—for Social Security purposes—either your net earnings (profit) or two-thirds of your gross (overall income). If both figures are under $400, however, you can't report anything—because you're excluded from coverage.

If you gross over $2,400 and net $1,600 or more, you must report your actual profit. If you gross over $2,400 and net less than $1,600, you may report $1,600 or your actual net (provided it's at least $400).

The higher the amount you report, the higher your Social Security tax. And the higher the benefits you and your dependents will eventually get.

Congress also has extended the Social Security tax to tips effective Jan. 1, 1966.

If a worker collects at least $20 in tips during a month while working for a particular employer, he will have to report the amount to his boss. This will have to be in writing by the tenth of the next month. The employer then will take out of the worker's next pay the Social Security tax that's due on these tips and send it to the government.

The boss won't have to match the tax on tips—though he must

Pharmacist Is Arrested Second Time on Charges

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP)—A pharmacist, arrested last week in Cortland on a charge of illegal possession of narcotics, has been re-arrested on charges of possession of improperly labeled drugs.

Norman L. Schulman, 38, of Binghamton, was arraigned on the labeling charge Thursday. He was released in $1,000 bail and a hearing was scheduled for Sept. 14.

The charge came when a state investigator, postal authorities and Cortland Police intercepted about $5,000 worth of narcotics capsules addressed to Schulman.

The investigators said the capsules contained phenobarbital. Schulman was arrested Aug. 4 when police found six gallons of paracetamol in his automobile and said they found about $250,000 worth of narcotics in Schulman's apartment.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In the 20 years since the end of World War II the American people have produced goods and services valued at $8 trillion. And on the 20th anniversary of V-J Day Saturday few will question the solidness of the foundation on which the economy is now based, as dizzy as its height may seem.

GNP Triples

The growth of the economy has been far faster than that of the population although that has gained 38 per cent—from 140 million persons in August 1945 to 195 million today.

But the Gross National Product, the value of all goods and services produced, has more than tripled in that time. GNP has gone from $214 billion at the end of the war to about $660 billion this year.

The financial status of the average American has changed just as remarkably. His possessions, debts, savings, spending and net worth, all have soared.

Individuals have spent $5.3 trillion since 1945 and personal consumption now runs at $423 billion a year.

In the 20 years Americans took on mortgages totaling $475 billion, as the number of home owners rose 75 per cent to 35 million today. Consumer credit rose from $5.7 billion in 1945 to $78.7 billion today, with installment debt being the largest component at $61.7 billion.

But financial assets of individuals have climbed too, with the total now estimated at $1.37 trillion. These include checking and savings accounts, stocks, bonds, insurance and pension reserves. These assets top liabilities of individuals to produce a net worth of $1.11 trillion.

Americans have added to their worldly goods in startling fashion. In the 20 years, 113 million American-made cars have been sold. Dollar volume of auto and parts exceeded $520 billion. In the 20 years some $270 billion of installment credit was involved in car purchases.

Literally millions of washing machines, dishwashers, electric ranges, refrigerators, air conditioning, television sets were purchased.

Consumer Credit Vital

Who takes credit for the striking growth in the American economy? Great strides in production efficiency has made it possible for U.S. manufacturers to produce the goods. The steady rise in personal incomes, making for a much larger middle-income group, furnished the markets to pay for the huge increase in goods and services.

And where the incomes didn't cover it, the extension of personal credit did. Most manufacturers agree with the lending agencies that without consumer credit the unparalleled economic growth couldn't have been achieved.

Is this on-the-cuff debt dangerously high?

"Tens of millions of American families have used consumer credit for the past 20 years," says L. Walter Lundell, president of C.I.T. Financial. "Their ability to handle their financial problems with sound judgment is shown in this. Our credit losses have never been more than a fraction of a penny on each dollar we advanced."

So, the American public in 20 years of tripling its rate of production and consumption is also winning good marks for common sense.

Milk Production Up

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Milk production in New York State this July was one per cent higher than for a corresponding period last year, says the State Agriculture Department.

The agency said Thursday that 867 million pounds of milk were produced in July.

A department spokesman said the continued drought conditions had little apparent effect on milk production.

Lions Hear About Manpower Training

Members of Kingston Lions Club were given a special program on the training of students under the Manpower Development Training Act during their luncheon meeting this week.

Loryne Connick, who is head of the business department and coordinator of distributive education at Kingston High School, told the Lions that 25 students will be accepted for enrollment in the fourth class opening Oct. 4. Local classes are held at School No. 4, Lindsley Avenue.

Connick is the over-all supervisor for MDTA while Mrs. Susanne Rook, graduate of Mercyhurst College, Erie, Pa., is instructor of the stenography program. She has more than seven years of high school commercial teaching experience and has approximately 10 years of office experience.

Mrs. Rook, who also appeared at the club meeting, said she expects a lot from her students but not more than they are prepared to give. "If they deliver what I require in speed, accuracy, understanding of a procedure, then they will not have any difficulty in handling a position in any office."

The course, she explained, trains students in telephone techniques, business machines and office dictating equipment. It is expected of all students to maintain 80 per cent attendance during the 33-week course. Up-to-date typewriters, calculators, adding machines and dictating equipment are used.

Connick said a New York State Regents Test in stenography and office procedure and a Civil Service test in office procedure must be passed by students before graduation. Graduates are assisted in obtaining employment, he added.

Mrs. Gertrude Greene, student at MDTA, said that "with the excellent training I have received, I feel confident to accept any secretarial position."

She praised both Mrs. Rook and Connick for their fine work.

The MDTA is conducted by the Kingston Board of Education, the State Manpower Training Bureau, the State Education Department and the State Employment Service.

Women and men who are looking for employment or seeking a career in a new field that pays higher wages than their present position, should contact the State Employment Service, Pine Grove Avenue, and ask about the course in stenography and office procedure, Connick suggested.

A & P Employees Approve 2-Year $6 Wage Package

A two-year contract including a $6 package wage increase, job security, pension plan, welfare plan and other minor fringe benefits, with the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co., Albany Division, was approved this week by members of Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Food Employees Union, Local 474.

This includes all A & P employees in this area.

Vote on Pact
Members of the local voted on the pact Tuesday night at Stuyvesant Hotel.

The two-year pact embodies a $3 weekly wage increase this year and $3 next year, an extra holiday and a new vacation schedule.

Under the wage package, all part-time employees will receive 7½ cent per hour increase the first year and 7½ cents the second year. Part-time employees receive 25 cents per hour additional for work after 6 p. m., after the first night.

Under the job security clause, all full-time employees now employed in the Albany Division embracing the Mid-Hudson Valley and portions of Western New Hampshire, are guaranteed a full 40 hours per week for the duration of the two-year contract.

New Pension Plan
The pension plan provides that management pays $26 per month for all full-time employees with $5 per year for each year of service, i.e. A person with 35 years of service would get $175 per month at age 65. Employees may retire at age 55 at a lesser amount if they prefer early retirement.

All full-time employees will receive a personal holiday. The vacation schedule includes one week after one year; two weeks after two years; three weeks after eight years, and four weeks after 15 years. Part-time employees will receive prorated vacations on the same basis.

Under the welfare plan, employees and dependents are covered for $10,000 each on a major medical plan, up to $7,500 life insurance based on salary, and a dental and optical plan. Part-time employees are also covered for hospitalization, and under the dental and optical plan.

Representing Local 1 Upstate was Marvin Pizzo; Local 474, Hudson Valley, Patrick J. Reape; and Western Mass., Vt., and N.H., Stanley Dominick.

A&P was represented by W. Verville and Jack Sulger of the Boston office of the firm.

Seek Negro Advice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are seeking the advice of Negroes from across the nation in an effort to enlist Negro voters in the South and in the big cities of the North.

Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., said today his party will be "a bunch of suckers" if they don't do the job.

"We're not talking about taking over the Negro community and turning it into a Republican camp," another party strategist said. "We're not that impractical."

"We're trying to build a very stable, long-range base that we can grow from," he added. "We're not expecting miracles."

BUSY BEAVERS—Members of the Hurley Beavers work on their entry sheets for the Ulster County Fair scheduled next Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 18-19, at Forsyth Park. Musial Is Elated By Fitness Gains

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Stan Musial, leader of the President's physical fitness program, says the march of American youth toward softness has been reversed.

"There's no question about it," said the former St. Louis Cardinal baseball star. "We've won an important victory with the physical fitness program."

Musial's remark came after release of a Pentagon report Wednesday which said that American boys are as healthy — or healthier — than those of 20 years ago.

Despite stricter interpretation of medical requirements, the military service rejection rate for physical reasons now is 14.8 per cent compared with 15.1 per cent during World War II.

Sweet Traffic Jam

BURLINGTON, Wis. (AP) — There was one sweet traffic jam on Highway 36 Wednesday. A tank truck failed to negotiate a curve, went into the ditch and rolled over on its side. Out came 5,800 gallons of molasses.

Police directed traffic until the pavement could be sandblasted. Then the fire department washed off the highway.

Olive Bridge

OLIVE, BRIDGE — Mrs. Emma Nelson of Brooklyn has been spending some time with her sisters, Mrs. Kornelia Kalberg and Mrs. Arthur Anderson.

CARE'S SEEDS OF MERCY

Blaming the Communists for the unrest seething in the Dominican Republic tells only part of the story, and a superficial part at best.

A significant fact is that the country was suffering from both a severe drought and high unemployment prior to the uprising that split the capital of Santo Domingo into two armed camps and brought in the U.S. Marines.

Because of its climate, the Dominican Republic could grow crops the year round. But for most of this year, drought seriously crippled production. An already underfed people suffered even more and unemployment climbed to 600,000 out of a population of less than 3½ million.

The bleak outlook is for intense food shortages for the next 12 to 18 months.

While most normal activities came to a halt during the fighting last spring, there was one that continued, immune to snipers' bullets and barricades.

This was the work of CARE, which daily during the revolt baked 35,000 fresh rolls and trucked them through the rebel lines to feed hungry youngsters.

Throughout this summer, when its school feeding program is normally suspended, CARE has been providing hot midday meals to 228,000 children.

CARE has been in the Dominican Republic since May of 1962, following the assassination of dictator Trujillo. Since that time it has distributed over $3.5 million in aid to needy Dominicans.

The organization is currently pushing a plan to grow 3,400 schoolyard vegetable gardens. For $2, Americans can buy a packet of seeds which Dominican children will transform into 1,000 pounds of vegetables.

The address is: CARE, New York, N.Y. 10016.

DEMANDS ON AIRLINES

The nation's airlines have been doing so well financially that the Civil Aeronautics Board thinks they should lower some fares and provide better service. The matter of fare reductions needs to be gone into carefully, with an eye to the long-term prospects and needs of the carriers. But there can be little quarrel with the idea of using current prosperity to underwrite improvements in service.

The CAB has suggested some of the improvements that might be made. Among these are more coach seats, more service to smaller cities, free stopover privileges, additional economy services on heavily traveled routes. None of these would constitute an unreasonable drain on earnings, which are higher than in past years and briskly rising. One factor in this is the jets, which are faster, more comfortable and cheaper to operate than piston-engined aircraft.

The likelihood is that some of these improvements would pay for themselves by increasing air travel enough to make up the difference. There is even a chance that greater patronage would pay for the suggested lower fares on short trips.

It does not follow that any widespread reduction in fares would be wise. Although the airlines' earnings position is good, and improving, the carriers were in trouble not very long ago. Perhaps they should be allowed to build up some reserves, if only to finance the heavy cost of aircraft purchases.

The CAB has acted wisely in rejecting fare increases proposed by American Airlines and United Air Lines. It ought to go slow, however, in seeking reductions. A thriving commercial aviation industry is in the broad public interest.

MOON DRILL

Ever wonder what restless men will find to do next when they at last set foot on the bleak, inhospitable moon?

Even though that event is still several years away, National Aeronautics and Space Administration is not sleeping on the problem. It has just awarded contracts totalling more than $1 million for the development of a drill to probe some 100 feet below the moon's surface.

The moon, you see, will be a geologist's

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN
"PROJECT CAMELOT"

The Latin American countries which waxed furious when they learned that the Pentagon was contemplating a multi-million dollar study of "the potential for internal war" in Chile, Argentina, Colombia, Peru and Venezuela might have spared themselves some agony. For even if the so-called Project Camelot had not been publicly buried by President Johnson, it would have revealed nothing that is not known already to practically anybody who has good Latin American sources — and it would have revealed that much too late.

These surveys! They assemble so much ponderous machinery to measure over a protracted period of time what a good reporter can get by judicious interviewing within a couple of weeks that they are invariably on the slow freight. I remember working on the editing and illustrating end of a government study of the comparative strength of Nazi Germany and Soviet Russia on the eastern front in 1942. For six months a group of professors, many of them quite able, made like beavers to correlate every last scrap of information they could get. Much of it came from the daily newspapers. By the time the job was completed the German Army had made a decisive move — and the work had to be done all over again. The cream of the ironic jest is that the U.S. military attaché in Moscow had been feeding more — and better — material to General George Marshall than he would have gotten from the survey even if it had reached his desk in time to be of any use.

All of which raises a question: why did the Pentagon feel it needed a "Project Camelot" to tell it about Latin American revolutionary potentialities if its own military attachés are on the ball? No possible. "Project Camelot" for pre-World War II Nazi Germany could ever have matched the material which our military attaché in Berlin, Colonel Truman Smith, gathered in the course of his daily duties. A good military or naval attaché is supposed to be on top of situations, with sources that it would take months for a team of academic researchers to tap. If a "Project Camelot" was indeed needed for Latin America, then we must assume that our military, naval and air force attachés in Chile, Argentina and the other countries are spending all too much time on the cocktail circuit.

Moreover, if a "Project Camelot" was justified, what are we to say of the Central Intelligence Agency and the area desks of the State Department itself? If the CIA files aren't filled to the gunwales with relevant stuff about Latin American revolutionary potentialities, then why are we spending billions to keep CIA personnel employed? And why do we have a State Department? Or are we to believe that the CIA and the State Department have secrets that are too precious to divulge to the Pentagon on request?

Of course, you might say that our military attachés and CIA operatives and diplomats are not social scientists. As is well known, "social science research" consists of surveying the Indians of the Peruvian altiplano and recording their grunts as they asked leading questions. The researcher invariably finds that the Indians don't live very well, and they might very well be disposed to listen to Castroites. Which is the sort of thing that anyone can glean from the reports put out each month by Paul D. Bethel, the able editor of the bulletin published by the Citizens Committee for a Free Cuba. The bulletin can be had for free.

It doesn't take a ponderous "social survey" to tell us that the military regime of Colonel Enrique Peralta Azurdia in Guatemala is vulnerable, or that Soviet and Cuban "trawlers" are smuggling Havana-trained guerrillas into Central and South America via Islas Mujeres off the Mexican coast, or that rebels control parts of Colombia, or that Ecuador is unstable, or that the Indians of Peru are hungry, or that the new Chilean President has to walk a tightrope between orthodox Communists and Maoists, or that Brazil is having difficulty overcoming the ravages of inflation. Information is what we have in abundance. The main trouble is that nobody has time to read it, it's so all-fired voluminous.

The DOCTOR SAYS

Relaxation Can Eliminate
Problems of Exhaustion

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

I hear the expression "nervous exhaustion" frequently but I find very little about it in print. Medical textbooks are strangely silent about this common ailment, probably because it is hard to define. Let it be understood at once that fatigue doesn't change our capacity to accomplish our purpose. It does, however, decrease it temporarily.

If we learn to take a brief period of complete relaxation when fatigue overtakes us we can eliminate much of its frustration and terror. Fatigue actually helps us to live within our limits and conserve our strength.

Sometimes we wear ourselves out trying to do a job too quickly. It takes less out of one, for example, to lift a 50-pound weight twice than to lift a 100-pound weight once at the same height. Furthermore, doing a given amount of work in quiet surroundings is less fatiguing than doing the same amount of work where it is very noisy.

When a person is faced with chronic exhaustion it is important to rule out such causes as a chronic low grade infection, anemia and a thyroid or adrenal deficiency before calling the condition nervous exhaustion or, to use an older term, nervous breakdown. One of the chief causes of true nervous exhaustion is worry — often a fear that one will not quite come up to what is expected of him.

A person with such a fear is likely to be unwilling or unable to admit even to himself that this is the basis for his trouble. As a result he pounces on some symptom of a more tangible nature such as a headache, indigestion or irregular heart action as a cause of his ailment and seeks relief for that. If the exhaustion has an emotional basis in fear and anxiety, however, treatment of these secondary symptoms is doomed to failure.

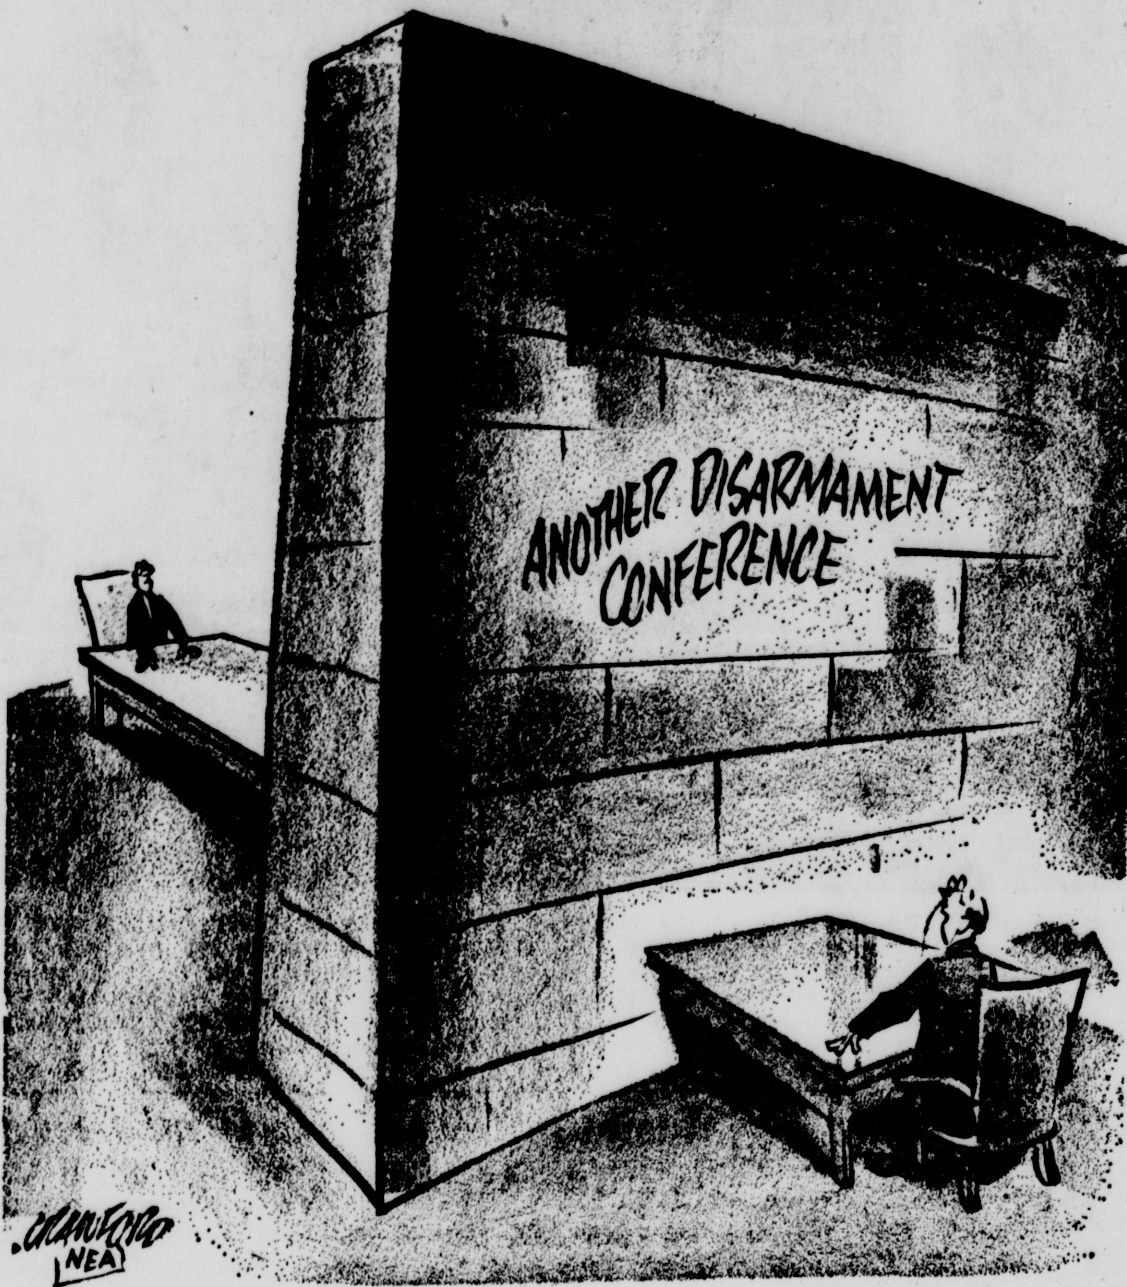

The first step must be a straightforward facing of the facts followed by a relaxing of the mind as well as the body — what a famous doctor has called the cultivation of equanimity. In some persons nervous fatigue is actually caused by insufficient physical exercise. If you suffer from insomnia, one of the chief symptoms of nervous exhaustion, run around the block 3 times before tumbling into bed then make yourself as limp as a wet rag. The chances are you will go to sleep at once.

The drugs prescribed for insomnia and chronic fatigue are a poor crutch at best and not nearly so important as re-education in tranquil living. By the same token a vacation, although it may give you a temporary respite, will do no good in the long run if you return to the same worries and frustrations that tired you out in the first place.

paradise, and drill cores sent back to the earth for study may likely tell us much about how the moon, the earth and the solar system itself were originally formed. Space belongs to the men of the future, who will, paradoxically, be closer to earth's distant past than any men before them.

Low income families now will get rent subsidies. This will make it just as cheap to pay rent as to move.

Washington News

WASHINGTON (NEA) — On Sept. 13 the headlines may well go to events in Viet Nam, or to a civil rights march somewhere. The fact that it will also be World Law Day may strike many Americans as pretty dreamy stuff, if they hear about it at all.

The setting aside of that day is indeed an adventure in idealism, intended to call attention to the hopes of whole legions of lawyers that the rule of law may some day be so thoroughly pervading throughout the world as to make war truly obsolete. But World Law Day, and the week-long September conference here of which it will be a part, already represents a good deal more than a filmy dream. Some 2,000 legal leaders from 120 countries would hardly be gathering in Washington for so distant a purpose.

The hard, practical substance behind the conference on World Peace Through Law is the tremendous proliferation of contacts among the peoples of the world — and among their many institutions and agencies.

INTERNATIONAL TRADE, travel, investment and other relationships among men and nations are accelerating so fast that some legal ordering of these affairs is vital if chaos is to be avoided.

Just on the national level, the United States now is party to 1,432 treaties and conventions. It is represented at an average of two international meetings a day at which new law may come up.

Lawyer Charles Rhyme, chairman of the September conference, says the United Nations and its specialized agencies have

"spurred, spawned, undated or sponsored more international law and legal institutions than was achieved in all prior history."

New international courts below the World Court level are springing up out of compelling need. The dealings of the Common Market and other European agencies have brought a thousand disputes or more to a new European Supreme Court of Justice. The continent also has a Human Rights Court, and the NATO countries have approved a plan for a NATO court. It is anticipated that similar regional courts will arise in other areas. There are already serious stirrings in South America, where another Common Market has come into being.

Trade agreements affecting fish, coffee, wheat and other commodities are established. World air travel is now so complex that agencies exist to control rates and operations, customs procedures, weather information, accidents on the ground and in the air.

THE WORLD'S LAWYERS already are worrying about laws to govern the activities of men and nations in outer space. If this sounds silly or premature, note that upwards of 300 objects are presently spinning in global orbit, with more being hurled up all the time.

The Ford Foundation is providing major financing for the Washington conference. Yet some $300,000 is said to be coming from bar associations, law firms and individual lawyers in this country. The South Dakota Bar Assn., which can hardly feel itself deeply embroiled in world legal matters, gave $1,000.

As a matter of fact, the World Peace Through Law Center, based in Washington, plans to turn out the first multivolume world law code in history, not to mention a compilation of all major treaties and a guide to laws and courts.

The September gathering will spend a lot of time exploring new realms for world law, new ways of drawing lawyers together for co-operative effort, programs for encouraging badly needed international unification in the bustling field of private law. The world's still-growing complexity will be the lawyers' constant spur in this and later conferences.

But the distant dream will not be lost sight of — the tantalizing notion that if enough men and enough nations can regulate enough of their large and small affairs by law, then war will one day appear to all as both absurd and useless.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The cop has never fallen so low. He must (1) prevent crime; (2) detect crime; (3) apprehend a criminal without bruising him; (4) appraise the criminal of his legal rights and try to stop him from confessing; (5) hide the story from the press; (6) give the criminal the benefit of every legal doubt; (7) when facing sudden death, be prepared not to defend himself because he might kill someone and be dismissed from the force.

J. Edgar Hoover says that serious crime is up 13 per cent over the previous year. The population is up 1.5 per cent. There were 1,100,000 burglaries in America last year. Fifty-seven policemen were killed. One in every 10 cops was assaulted. There were 9,250 murders; 20,550 forcible rapes reported, and perhaps another 10,000 not reported.

America, as currently constituted, has small respect for law, and less for law-enforcement officers. Life is becoming cheaper here. The cop is the defendant; the district attorney must bargain with criminals; the judge must extend mercy or expect to be hounded as a hanging judge.

This is not to say that all policemen are good ones. The uniform will not make a thinker of a biker. The big risks among cops are (1) the ignorant and inefficient; (2) the sadists who use the sanctity of the shield to bend the helpless to their will; (3) crooks in uniform; (4) homosexuals.

My father was a police lieutenant. My grandfather was a patrolman. My brother John was once a railroad detective. Still, none of us had copitis. We were not permitted to believe that a policeman was right no matter what he did. When a policeman was wrong we believed that his peers in the department should try him and punish him, as soldiers are tried in a court martial.

The pressure on Mayor Robert Wagner and the police department of New York to permit the trial of policemen by civilians is a cynical disgrace. The legal limp in the premise is that civilians are better qualified to deal with malefactors in uniform. To the contrary, no one understands law enforcement better than a captain or inspector who once pounded a beat, and no one is more merciless.

The policeman now has a new emotion: fear. He's afraid of his job; he's afraid of making the wrong move, so his tendency is to play it safe. The pay is minimum; the risk is maximum. Why take a chance?

In many cities, the cop is now at the mercy of the mob. If he makes an arrest, he must be prepared to fight for his life. The citizen whose bounden duty it is to assist the law enforcement officer finds it easier to surround the policeman and taunt him and dare him to fire at anyone in the crowd.

The breakdown in civilian morale is closely followed by a breakdown in police morale. The cop in the squad car will take $10 to forget the violation. Or he will make a date with a woman driver instead of giving her a date in traffic court. He becomes conscious of races and

Trade With Enemy:
The Harm to U.S.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Which is more important — to make money for oneself in trading with an enemy or to help save human lives?

Everybody would say at once that it is obviously better to avert bloodshed and end any war that's going on. But when this is applied in practice, it turns out that many individuals in various countries, hitherto allied with us, have a greater passion for dollars or pounds or francs or marks or pesos.

There wouldn't be a war in Viet Nam today and American boys wouldn't be fighting and dying in a far-off land if the nations of the world whom the United States has befriended and to whom it continues year after year to send billions of dollars of aid took a stand in support of the American position in Viet Nam.

There would be a different story to tell if trade with Red China were off by the free world, and if the Soviets saw that the same thing would happen to them should they keep on siding with North Viet Nam by building missile sites there and sending weapons to be used to kill American soldiers and airmen. The Russian people, if they knew the facts, would not go along with the Red Chinese.

Perhaps the Johnson administration has failed to be realistic about the situation. The President has said that he has ample authority to send American armed forces to Southeast Asia under the resolution passed by both houses of Congress on Aug. 10, 1964. But, while this is true, Congress has not formally declared "a state of war," which is recognized in international law as requiring all nations to refrain from sending contraband goods to the belligerents under penalty of seizure or confiscation of shipments of such commodities.

Red China is in every sense a co-belligerent with North Viet Nam. The Viet Cong couldn't last a month if forces and weapons were not supplied directly or indirectly by the Communist regime in Peking.

But what is the news that the American people read in the headlines this week? Canada has announced that it has just completed a deal to sell $450 million worth of wheat to the Soviet government. This illustrates the importance placed on international trade and the dependence of the Communist bloc on trade with the free world.

It has been argued that more trade will produce better relations with the Communist regimes, and a new scheme now is being pushed here to sell vast quantities of U. S. wheat to Communist countries, especially in Eastern Europe.

Much of the American grain which would be shipped to the Communists in Eastern Europe or elsewhere has been bought and paid for by United States taxpayers through the farm-subsidy program. The Chicago Tribune says editorially:

"If the sale is approved, we will be selling wheat to Communists at 75 cents a bushel less than American flour millers have to pay for it. And if Congress authorizes the Administration's new wheat program, if the Communists next year will be able to buy our wheat at $1.25 a bushel less than it is sold for food in this country. In other words, the Administration proposes to sell our wheat to Communists at the low world price while at the same time it is asking Congress to boost the price of domestic wheat for food to double the world price — which means American consumers would have to pay higher prices for wheat foods — for example, two cents a loaf more for bread."

"Moreover, we are beginning to hear that inasmuch as our grain sales to Russia simply free Russian grain for export to Red China and Cuba, we might as well get in on this trade directly. Not mentioned is the argument that if we did not sell grain to Russia, it would have less grain to supply Red China and Cuba, why not ship food directly to North Viet Nam, though it is directing a war against us and killing Americans in South Viet Nam?"

"Although grain is not usually classified as 'strategic material' in the sense of arms and ammunition, it certainly becomes strategic when our enemies are hungry and can't feed themselves."

So it comes back to the same old question: which is more important — to make money for oneself or to help save human lives, especially American lives? The war the United States is fighting in Viet Nam has a worthy purpose and winning it can do a great deal to prevent further acts of aggression and to preserve world peace. But if, as in the 1930's, private greed supersedes the interests of the people as a whole, the world may again see a global conflict. For it was the failure of the embargo on oil against Mussolini in 1935 and the flagrant indifference of the nations of Europe to the plea of President Roosevelt in 1937 for a "quarantine" or economic embargo against Hitler that brought on the very conditions which made World War II inevitable. WALT DISNEY'S True Life Adventures

5 States Around Lake Erie Plan Pollution End

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The five states bordering Lake Erie have promised to develop, within six months, detailed programs for ending lake pollution.

Representatives of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Michigan agreed Thursday to the multi-billion-dollar venture at the close of a U.S. Public Health Service pollution control conference. The conference included sessions at Buffalo and Cleveland.

More than 10 million persons in the U.S. portion of the Lake Erie basin would be affected if the plan were carried out.

Officials said it would be the largest project ever attempted in the nation in terms of the number of people involved.

Final recommendations unanimously approved by the conference included a suggested timetable which called on municipalities and industries to complete construction of new sewage treatment plants by 1969.

The municipalities were asked to complete treatment of wastes and industries were asked to reduce pollutants according to a schedule recommended in the report.

The New York participation in the program would include the possibility of federal enforcement of anti-pollution laws on communities and industries in western New York despite a policy outlined by Gov. Rockefeller that enforcement was a problem for the state alone to handle.

Rockefeller told the opening session Tuesday of the three-day Buffalo hearing that New York did not need federal supervision, only financial aid, to work toward ridding Lake Erie of pollution.

Knifing Charged To Hunter Man

An altercation in a parking lot near a Tannersville tavern shortly after midnight today, resulted in the stabbing of a 36-year-old man and the arrest of his assailant on a charge of second degree assault.

Leeds State Police said Robert John Green, 22, of Hunter, was taken into custody by Troopers R. C. Roe and L. N. Uva on the assault charge. He was accused of knifing Kenneth Curtis, 36, Tannersville, during the altercation.

Curtis was rushed to Greene County Memorial Hospital, Catskill, and treated for knife wounds of the abdomen. Troopers reported a pocketknife was allegedly used in the assault.

Green was arraigned before Justice of the Peace George Carl. The defendant waived preliminary examination and the case was referred to the Greene County grand jury for further investigation.

SS to Open in Ithaca

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ithaca, N.Y., will be the site of one of 71 new branch offices to be opened by the Social Security Administration.

The agency said Thursday that the new offices would expedite applications for social security benefits under terms of the Medicare legislation signed on July 30 by President Johnson.

SAUGERTIES NEWS List Assignment of Pupils In District Grade Schools

The assignment of elementary pupils for the fall term to the school nearest their home was announced this week by Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, superintendent of Saugerties Central Schools.

Geographically, the school district is a large area encompassing approximately 65 square miles, some of which is heavily populated, some sparsely and some growing rapidly, he said. Because school space is limited, assignment of pupils is difficult, for pupils must be sent where space is available and where transportation is feasible, Dr. Arnold said.

Assignment of pupils on the basis of neighborhood schools should assist in keeping transportation costs at a minimum. Pupils and parents will become better acquainted with principals and teachers; school staffs will be dealing with the same pupils and parents.

This type of situation should create better knowledge and understanding and result in greater services to pupils. Less time will be spent on busses. Eventually, the uncertainty of school assignments should be eliminated and changes will occur only when an over-crowded condition develops, he said.

Assignments have been made, Dr. Arnold explained, with the intent of having the Glasco School serve the southeastern section of the district east of the Esopus Creek including Whittier, Glasco, Flatbush, and Glenierie, and extending north along Rte. 9W as far as possible.

The Mt. Marion School serves the area west of the Esopus Creek including Mt. Marion, The new Grant D. Morse School will serve the largest geographical area ranging from High Woods and Daisy through Fish Creek, Pine Grove, Centerville, Veteran, Blue Mountain, West Saugerties, Quarryville, Manorville, Saxton, Asbury, Katsbaan, and West Camp.

The Main Street School serves Saugerties Village primarily. The Malden School has very limited facilities.

The superintendent stated, "Unfortunately, the area with the greatest concentration of children, Barclay Heights, has no school. According to the August 1964 Census, this section, including the Windemere, Simmons Park, Dutch Settlement, Barclay, and Barclay Lane developments had 87 children of kindergarten age for September 1965. Actual kindergarten registration for September 1965 from this area total 94. Experience indicates that these figures probably will increase each year until these developments are completed.

A school similar to the new Grant D. Morse is designed to accommodate about 90 pupils per grade. It is obvious that the pupils presently registered in this area justifies construction of a new 21-room elementary school.

"Because of this situation, pupils from Barclay Heights and from the east side of Rte. 9W, in Garden Circle, Kings Village, Spaulding Lane, Meadow Court, and Saugerties Village south of the Esopus Creek, have been assigned to the Main Street School, Glasco School, and Mt. Marion School. In some cases, in order to keep class sizes fairly sized, it has been necessary to assign children from the same development to different schools.

We regret this inconvenience and we have tried earnestly to avoid it.

"We want the public and particularly parents to be aware of our problems and plans. Through common understanding and co-operative effort, we can move ahead to meet the educational needs of our children in an intelligent, efficient, and economical manner. I personally appreciate the fine cooperation demonstrated by the public in the two and one half years I have served as superintendent of schools."

Dr. Arnold emphasized that these assignments may be changed if unanticipated registration of pupils occur. He said, "We have no way of knowing the size of families and grade levels of children who may move into the district, but we will do our best to follow the principles stated above in making assignments. Changes will not be made unless necessary to control class size."

Miss May Evans, director of elementary education, and Elementary School Principals Ernest Blake, Norman Björnd, Clarence Bryden, and Patrick Buongiorno have cooperated in making the assignments. Transportation problems have been solved by Director of Transportation Lawrence Cahill. Questions concerning assignments should be addressed to any of the above.

Pupils from the community listed will be assigned on a geographical basis as follows:

Asbury—K-6, Blue Mountain School.

Barclay Heights Development — Kindergarten, Main Street School; First, Second Grades, Glasco School; 3 through 5, Main Street School, and Sixth Grades, Mt. Marion School.

Blue Mountain, Cedar Grove, Centerville—K-6, Blue Mountain School.

Churchland Lane—Kindergarten, Mt. Marion School; Grades 1-6, Blue Mountain School.

Daisy — K-6, Blue Mountain School.

Fish Creek—K-6, Blue Mountain School.

Garden Circle — K-6, Main Street School.

Barclay Lane — K-2, Glasco School; 3-6, Mt. Marion School.

Glasco Turnpike—Esopus Creek Bridge west to Plattekill Creek Bridge—K-6, Mt. Marion School.

Glasco Turnpike — Plattekill Creek Bridge west to district line including connecting roads—K-6, Blue Mountain School.

Glasco and Glenierie — K-6, Glasco School.

High Woods, Katsbaan—K-6, Blue Mountain School.

HARRINGTON HOUSE

Dutch Day Tours Slated Saturday At Stone Ridge

Dutch Day house tours will be conducted in the Stone Ridge area Saturday.

Among the houses to be included is the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Harrington on Route 209 which was lived in as early as 1791 and was probably built by Mrs. Harrington's great, great-grandfather, Isaac B. Bloom. It remained in this family until it was sold in 1910. After the death of one of the owners, Dr. John Hasbrouck, the house stood sadly unoccupied for many years until 1960 when the Harringtons, passing through Stone Ridge and realizing her ancestor's home was for sale, decided to buy it.

Since then they have devoted much time and care to the repair and restoration of the house and grounds, and have returned them to their former grace and beauty. One feels the charm of the place as soon as one enters, for the spacious central hall has wide Dutch doors at both front and back so that it would always catch the morning or evening sun. Of special interest here are the fine woodwork, the hand-wrought foliate hinges, and the handwoven and marked linen which will be on display.

Other houses on the tour will include those of Mrs. Cornelius Hardenbergh, Mill Dam Road, Stone Ridge; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hansen, Lucas Turnpike, High Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Embree, Sr., Pine Bush Road, Kripplebush; and those of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Zoehrer and Gen. and Mrs. Sherman Hasbrouck, both of Buck Road, Stone Ridge. The tour will last from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m. and tickets will be available at the Marbletown Reformed Church of Stone Ridge or those interested may contact Mrs. John Davenport, ticket chairman, before the tour.

A luncheon will be available that day at the church from 11:30 to 2:30. Plans for this are being made by Miss Edythe Newkirk, chairman; Mrs. V. Barnhardt, Mrs. J. Davis, Mrs. C. Hardenbergh and other ladies of the church.

Naval Academy Going After Top Students

By HERB THOMAS

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The U.S. Naval Academy will use its athletic recruiting techniques and organization in a new campaign to attract top students from high schools around the country.

Plans for the academic talent search were announced today by Rear Adm. Draper L. Kauffman, academy superintendent.

He said a similar drive will be launched later this year to recruit high school students with outstanding leadership ability, such as class officers, who might not come to the academy's attention as readily as an athlete or scholar.

The program will have "our very highest priority," he said. "We have a great thing going for us in our athletic recruiting system," said Kauffman, who became superintendent two months ago. "It has produced good student athletes with outstanding officer potential."

"Now we're going after those who can still fit our concept of the 'whole man' but whose abilities may be more pronounced in scholarship or leadership than in athletics."

The first to be contacted will be 189 National Merit Scholar semi-finalists and other recommended students who recently indicated an interest in attending the naval academy on their examination forms. These students rank among the top 2 per cent in high schools throughout the country.

Kauffman said hundreds of others with similar high standing, who expressed a preference for some other college or university also will come within the scope of the campaign "if they are the type of individual we are looking for."

Nab Orange Trio At Store After Police Get Tip

Apprehended in the act of burglarizing a Newburgh business establishment early today three young men were held on charges of third degree burglary pending arraignment before City Judge Charles J. Roskoski.

Police booked Rudolph Parker, 17, of 154 Ann Street; Richard Parker, 24, of 281 Grand Street, and Jerome Parker, 21, of 69 Landers Street, all of Newburgh.

According to police, Sergeant William Decker and five patrolmen acting on a tip, surrounded the building occupied by the Newburgh Distributors Inc., 360 230 a. m.

Police said they caught the three defendants as they allegedly were burglarizing the building, which they reportedly entered through a window on the east side of the business establishment.

Authorities said merchandise including radios, hair dryers and other articles were found outside the building where the merchandise had been left after being removed from the store.

All Not Quiet On Rebel Front

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Restlessness appears to be mounting in the rebel sector of Santo Domingo as negotiations to end the crisis drag on with no agreement in sight.

Two members of the Organization of American States peace committee — Ellsworth Barker of the United States and Ramon de Clarimont of El Salvador — were booed when they arrived at the rebel headquarters Thursday to meet with Col. Francisco Caamano Demo, the insurgent chief.

The day before shouting demonstrators prevented the OAS committee from leaving the rebel quarter until Caamano intervened.

Shortly after Bunker and De Clarimont left Caamano Thursday, three shots rang out in front of rebel headquarters. By-standers said rebel soldiers were disarming a guard who was drunk and the guard's ear went off.

A rebel soldier was killed Wednesday night, setting off reports that a quarrel had broken out in the rebel camp. Col. Manuel Ramon Montes Arache, chief of the rebel armed forces, said the soldier was killed while trying to arrest a chicken thief.

The incidents are considered signs of increasing unrest in the rebel sector, where extreme leftwingers are known to oppose the course negotiations with the OAS peace committee have taken.

Kiwanians Hear About 'Living,' Two Jap Students

The "Experiment in International Living" was briefly described to the Kingston Kiwanis Club at its Thursday noon meeting by Mrs. William Mathews of Kingston.

The program was begun in 1932, according to Mrs. Mathews, and is currently world-wide and making progress.

As evidence of the working of the program, Miss Yoshiko Sasaki and Masao Mochiyuki, both students from Japan and residing locally for a brief time, were introduced to the Kiwanis Club members.

Both Japanese students compared life in the United States with that of their home country, and also described their tour from Japan to Kingston, Miss Sasaki provoked considerable merriment during her remarks when her comparisons indicated that the American husband works more than his wife, while the Japanese husband allegedly finds himself with less to do in his home.

Sears Will Open

12 cars simultaneously and provide area motorists with both major and minor repair and maintenance services. Tires, batteries, accessories and a complete line of auto parts will be sold there.

Stewart said Sears' new store would place special emphasis on fashion in both the apparel and home furnishings sections of the store. The depth, breadth and variety of the merchandise will be unequalled in the area, the executive said.

"Interior settings for this merchandise will be infused with warmth and decorative appeal," Stewart said. "Individual decorated room settings for home furnishings and thickly carpeted salon treatment in the women's fashion departments are examples of the overall display concept that will characterize the shopping environment in our new store."

Stewart said a variety of special shopping conveniences would also be incorporated. A colonial restaurant serving everything from simple snacks to complete dinners, a gift wrap desk, a package pickup depot, and a customer convenience center will be included.

Forty-nine Sears retail stores are now located throughout New York State.

"And unless we make that decision, it is possible that all of our fighting in South Viet Nam will have been in vain."

Further, he said the United States was pouring so many planes into Viet Nam "the air fields can't hold any more."

"But what will they be used for — or against? If we want victory — we must be prepared for the risks associated with the effort."

Rivers said in the interview he didn't know what the fuss was about. "I've been saying that all along," he added.

Seek Housing For Drum Corps Participants

Everyone knows that one of the character building traits of the Boy Scouts of America is their influence on boys to do at least one "Good Turn Daily."

Kingston area families will now have the opportunity to do a "good turn" for the Scouts while enjoying the fellowship of a fine young man or woman from the Midwest or Canada.

On the evening of August 28, the Rip Van Winkle Boy Scout Council in co-sponsorship with the Troop 12 Indians are presenting the Pow Wow of Junior Champions, an international championship marching and maneuvering drum and bugle corps competition. Three of the corps participating in this colorful event are coming great distances. These corps are the Troopers from Casper, Wyo.; the Royal-Airs from Chicago, and the Optimists from Toronto, Canada.

The families of Troop 12 and Post 12 are taking a total of 90 of these youngsters into their homes while they are in Kingston, and are seeking local families that would consider housing one or two or more youngsters for one or two days and nights. There will be about 180 corps members in addition to the 90 that the "Indians" are housing.

This practice is common among junior drum and bugle corps and without this type of arrangement most of these long tours by the junior corps would be impossible because of the expense involved. Most of these fine young musicians range in age from 13 to 19 years old.

If interested, please call or write to the Rip Van Winkle Council 260 First Street, Kingston, within the next two or three days.

The night attack, if adopted as a tactic in the Viet Nam war, opens a number of possibilities for Vietnamese and American troops, Marine officers say.

They say large forces could be moved in around known Viet Cong villages at night, then set ambushes to catch guerrillas attempting to slip out before a thorough search at dawn.

Attacking troops also could be landed at night for a forced march for an early morning attack against a village some distance from the landing zone.

Viet Cong observation posts on hillsides now can spot troop movements during the day. Communist troops then can either move out of the way or set up ambush positions.

Resnick Office

the realm of politics.

"Mr. Clausi has a concept of politics oriented to the era of Boss Tweed and the ward-heeler. I refuse to make the congressman's office a haven for political maneuvering in order to obtain work for anyone."

"I was shocked by the verbal abuse heaped upon me and the congressman by Mr. Clausi. I don't think anyone can be expected to take such abuse and this office certainly does not intend to do so," Logan concluded.

13 Home Nursing Students Awarded Red Cross Honors

Thirteen members of the Red Cross Home Nursing Course for Care of the Sick and Injured, which was sponsored by the commission on missions and the commission on Christian social concerns of the Trinity Methodist Church, received their certificates of completion Thursday night.

Those completing the course were Mrs. Shirley Armstrong, 94 Gage Street; Miss Barbara Blades, 30 Tompkins Street; Miss Betty Lou Broadhead, 27 St. Mary's Street; Mrs. Dorothy Brodhead, 49 Gull Street; Mrs. Luther Dougherty, 216 Elmendorf Street; Mrs. Frances Gilmore, 211 East Union Street; Mrs. Ella Leverenz, 396 Delaware Avenue; Mrs. Marilyn Little, R. D. 3; Mrs. Gloria Loeffler, 1 Rodney Street; Mrs. Rebecca Palen, 93 Newkirk Avenue; Clara N. Pardee, R. D. 5; Miss Darlene Steltz, 42 Brewster Street; and Mrs. Naomi Strong, R. D. 1, Kingston.

The course was offered as a group project with other churches in the vicinity. The churches completing the course represented eight community churches, including Trinity Methodist, Riverview Baptist, St. Peter's Catholic, Holy Name Catholic, Holy Cross Episcopal, and Holy Cross Episcopal.

The certified Red Cross Home Nursing Instructor who taught the course was Mrs. Lawrence Kinstry, R.N. of Rosendale. Mrs. Kinstry is a school nurse employed at Wiltwyck School at Esopus. The Red Cross Care of the Sick and Injured course is based on the premises that care of the sick and injured at home is family affair and that basic nursing procedures used in home care can be adapted readily to the care of major casualties in the event of a disaster.

Home nursing instruction offers people the opportunity to learn how to make the best use of time, energy, and material, how to carry out the doctor's orders when caring for the sick at home, how to comply with public health regulations and how to apply what they have learned to an emergency situation. The six 2-hour lessons deal with maintaining health, recognizing illness, positioning and body mechanics, personal services for the bed patient, getting out of bed and giving medicines and simple treatments.

At the completion of the course, the pupils enjoyed a social hour sponsored by a group from the YWCA. These women are interested in providing recreation and leadership in connection with urban removal and the anti-poverty program and it is their plan that they will be providing courses and social activities with the cooperation of the Kingston Recreation Center on Broadway.

Nine Drivers Pay $200 in Fines in City Court Today

Nine drivers paid fines totaling $200 in city court today.

William Bassett, 17, of 766 Albany Avenue Extension, charged with operating a motor vehicle illegally after dark on a junior operator's license was given the choice of $25 or five days in jail plus five days suspended, and was given the choice of eight days or a fine of $40 on a charge of speeding. He was also ordered to attend a drivers' training school. The fines were paid.

John D. Coover, 20, of 222 West Yates Street, Syracuse, charged with speeding as a second offender, was fined $50.

Charges of operating a vehicle with no signal lights and with faulty equipment lodged against Edward Cyr, 64, of Lincoln Park Place, Town of Ulster, were dismissed, but he paid a fine of $10 on one dealing with unsafe backing. Cyr, a driver for Babcock's Dairy, 179 Hurley Avenue, was booked on the charges after a recent mishap at Purvis and Hamilton Streets. Attorney Howard C. St. John represented him at trial.

Leslie Shultz, 17, of 63 Germain Street, charged with driving a vehicle with unsafe tires, was given the choice of paying a $20 fine or four days in jail. The fine was paid.

Thomas Vioral, 22, of 1318 North Jackson Avenue, Arlington, Virginia, charged with speeding, was fined $15.

Others charged with speeding and fined $10 each were: Robert L. Millet, 27, of RD 5, Box 306, Kingston; Margaret Weber, 40, of 39 Mountain View Avenue; Marie Koenig, 54, 116 Andrew Street; and Ernest Shaut, 23, of Hillside Avenue, Hurley. Harry Krom, 37, of RD 4, Box 290, Saugerties, charged with speeding, was fined $10 Thursday.

AEC Behind Schedule

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission is running behind schedule in screening possible locations for the world's biggest atom-smasher.

The commission said Thursday it will not be able to forward a list to the National Academy of Sciences for detailed review until later this month.

AEC received 117 proposals for location of the sought-after $348-million basic research facility, which will bring a large pay roll and a permanent attraction for visitors to the community chosen.

Long Way to Go

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker John W. McCormack hopes Congress can adjourn by "the latter part of September."

But the Massachusetts Democrat told newsmen at his daily briefing Thursday that "a lot of things stand in the way" of adjournment by then.

McCormack declined to elaborate but presumably referred to a number of President Johnson's legislative recommendations which so far have not been enacted.

Fighting Flares Anew in Kashmir

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — New fighting broke out in Kashmir's capital early today.

The Indian government radio said infiltrators from Pakistan attacked the police barracks in Srinagar, the Kashmiri capital, at 1:30 a. m., and that firing in the city's outskirts was still continuing at 8 a. m.

But "the situation is in hand," the broadcast added.

A government spokesman said 109 "infiltrators" and 41 Indian troops have been killed since fighting started Aug. 5.

New Delhi claims 1,000 to 1,500 Pakistanis on that date crossed the cease-fire line separating the Indian and Pakistan armies since their 1947-48 war over Kashmir. But Kashmiris were being arrested as accomplices of the infiltrators, and a large cache of weapons and ammunition was reported found in a Srinagar mosque.

It's Called Boon and BoondoggleHouse Passes $3.25 Billion To Help Depressed Sectors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed a $3.25-billion public works and economic development bill after hearing proponents call it a boon and opponents call it a boondoggle.

The measure, designed to give a boost to areas whose economy is depressed, goes to the Senate, which has passed a slightly different version.

A continuation and enlargement of the expiring area redevelopment and public works acceleration programs, the bill carries a price tag $750 million higher than the one President Johnson tied to his original request.

What Sponsors Say

During two days of debate preceding House passage Thursday night by roll-call vote of 246 to 138, sponsors said it would be a boon to areas of above-average unemployment and below-average income in every state.

It would do this, they contended, by providing $2 billion for federal grants and $850 million for long-term loans to public bodies and private business to build public facilities, streets and roads, parks, vocational schools and airports and to encourage industrial expansion that would provide long-term jobs.

The rest of the money would be used for technical aid and multicounty programs.

Most of the money, if Congress actually appropriates it in a separate bill, would be spent over a five-year period.

Republican opponents labeled the measure a boondoggle that would not accomplish the stated objective but would only run the federal government farther into debt.

Cite Voice Vote

To back this claim they cited overwhelming voice-vote approval of an amendment to guarantee that every state would share in the money if it wanted to. As presented to the House, the bill had in it nothing for Hawaii, New Hampshire, Vermont and Delaware because those states could not qualify as having economically depressed areas.

Senate backers of the bill which passed that body overwhelmingly June 1 indicated they would go along with most of the House changes except for one providing for a speed-up of the program and making more areas eligible to participate.

That change, adopted by roll-call vote of 196 to 194 after considerable persuasion by administration lieutenants, would let about 100 counties in 29 states share in the grants by liberalizing the eligibility requirements.

GOP Version Loses
Republican-backed amendments to trim the scope of the bill limit grants to 50 per cent, eliminate loans for commercial purposes, and cut out loan payment guarantees were defeated almost as rapidly as they were offered.

The GOP succeeded with one noncontroversial change. It would ban loans to start or expand factories in areas where there is an oversupply of the product to be produced. Democrats and 31 Republicans crats and 93 Republicans voted On passage of the bill, 215 supported it, while 45 Demo-no.

Bloomington, N. Y.
Aug. 11, 1965

Editor, The Freeman:
It was with much interest I read your editorial entitled "The Noise Problem" in Tuesday's Freeman—the last paragraph reading:

"Operation of a car, motorcycle, motorbike or scooter without a muffler is in violation of the law. This is a wise restriction and offenders should be dealt with accordingly. Strict enforcement of the law will be appreciated by those who cherish the remaining fragments of a peaceful quiet in an often noisy world."

Of course your editorial was primarily referring to the noise created by motorcycles and/or motorbikes, but noise is noise and equally distressing by whatever means produced.

Most people will accede a fire siren is at the present time, at least, the accepted form of alerting a community in the event of a fire, however, it doesn't seem necessary to blast an especially loud siren every noon in a small hamlet of private homes. Even in cities with factories, etc., this noon din is being reduced and rightly so. So far I have found no resident of Bloomington able to give a reasonable explanation of the noon blast in this small hamlet and it is generally agreed that anyone uncertain of the correct time has merely to pick up their phone or turn on their radio without awaiting a twelve o'clock blast.

Motorbikes or sirens, noise is noise and when unnecessarily produced should be, as your editorial says, subject to the strict enforcement of the law.

Very truly yours,
MABEL H. BOURNE.

Charges Pending In 4-Car Crash, Woman Is Critical

Kingston State Police said today that investigation will continue into a traffic accident at 7:30 p. m. Thursday on Route 212, Veteran, Town of Saugerties, which resulted in critical injury to a woman motorist and damage to four vehicles.

Trooper Thomas Crowley said Mary Lou White, 29, of 141 Ulster Avenue, Saugerties, was driving east on the highway at the time when her car failed to negotiate a curve, went off the left side of the road, crossed the pavement and crossed the highway where it crashed into a Drake's Bakery delivery truck. The impact, authorities said, pushed the truck into the porch of Dick's Food Store. The White car continued on and hit a parked car owned by William Rhodes, of Saugerties, pushing it into another vehicle owned by Christopher Cunningham, also of Saugerties.

Mrs. Estelle Rhodes, 56, Box 160, Saugerties, who was sitting in the Rhodes parked vehicle, sustained bruises and abrasions. The White woman suffered lacerations of the face, fractures of the legs, a cerebral concussion and multiple contusions of the chest, arms and legs. She was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Saugerties Ambulance Service. Her condition was listed as critical.

BCI Investigator Joseph Ventriglia, Sergeant Charles Bundschuh and Trooper Craig Bremer investigated. Trooper Crowley said charges are pending.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market rolled to a good gain early this afternoon.

It was the third consecutive day of advance. Trading was fairly active.

The market was ahead from the start and increased its gain as the session wore on. Motors, rubbers, aircrafts, rails, and tobaccos were strong.

Coppers continued weak after a move was made in the Chilean Senate to nationalize the copper industry in Chile. Kennecott, a big operator there, slumped 3 points.

Reports of record car sales in the first 10 days of August brought strength to the motors. Chrysler advanced a point and General Motors and Ford were up half a point.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon had advanced .6 to 330.3 with industrials up .7, rails up .8 and utilities unchanged.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was up 4.50 to 886.46.

Owens - Corning Fiberglass traded off a point on a block of 59,600 shares.

Prices advanced in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and Treasury bonds were mostly unchanged.

Ulster County Board Votes on Lights and Heating

1 and 2 a. m. "We can't tolerate this disturbance," he said. He said that at least one resident showed damage done to his home by blasting, although the primary complaint was from dust and stack fumes and damage they caused to house surfaces and cars.

McCauley said that the plant quarry was located across from a town (of Ulster) road and trucks from the plant cause excess mud and stone deposits and in at least one instance a local motorist reported that his car was struck by flying rock from one of the trucks.

Local Study Made
Supervisor Peter Williams (R-Saugerties) said that an Air Control Commission study was investigated "some time ago" and that $7,000 was provided in the budget for Ulster's participation in a five-county-wide survey to determine what could be done about the problem. He said that although the county had participated in the survey, "the State Department of Air Pollution and Control has never made a report to us."

Supervisor Peter Savago (R-New Paltz) said that the County Board of Health "can't enforce" any ordinance or control that would regulate the problem.

Supervisor Charles Relyea (R-Hurley) said that a committee from the board went to West Virginia to investigate how the problem was handled there. It was the general reaction among the supervisors that it wasn't necessary to go that distance to find out how to handle the problem, especially in view of the fact that there appeared to be no problem at the Nyrallite Aggregate plant at Eddyville.

It was pointed out that the cement plant was of benefit both to the City of Kingston and to Ulster County and was responsible for much employment.

Supervisor Roger Mabie (D-Esopus) said, "I think these people have been exceedingly mild in their observations." He said that "Anyone knows that a plant has certain obligations" to maintain a "good neighbor" status with a community. He said that there were "other cement plants within 30 miles of here that are doing a good job of controlling dust."

Mrs. Clausi said that she decided to appeal to the supervisors when East Kingston residents couldn't get any satisfaction elsewhere. She said she called Mayor John J. Schwenk's office and said she was told that "it's too bad that you don't live closer to Kingston."

Banyo, who was appointed chairman of the special committee, pointed out that while the plant is located in the city, the quarry is in the Town of Ulster. He said that if nothing could be done locally, it might be necessary to ask Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson (R-Ulster) to take legislative action. Meanwhile, he said, he planned to meet today with Harry Edinger, director of environmental sanitation for the County Health Department.

Banyo said that it was hoped that as a result of today's meeting that we can get a representative from Albany as soon as possible.

About 30 Attend
Approximately 30 East Kingston residents turned out for the meeting. McCauley said that about 50 persons were directly involved with the pollution problem.

Other supervisors appointed by Chairman Phinney to the special committee were Williams, Mabie, Bell, John J. Lucci (D-Fifth Ward), and Roy J. Webber (Marboro).

Adoption of the resolution on "The Black Hole of Calcutta" at the Thruway traffic circle and Rt. 28 will mean the realization of traffic control lights in the area — and culmination of a long local campaign to make the dangerous, highly traveled roadway visible at night.

The resolution cosponsored by Supervisors Banyo and James J. Carroll (D-10th Ward), provides that the Town of Ulster will bear half the annual cost of the traffic control lights with the balance to be defrayed by the balance, which will share in the annual maintenance contract. Cost to the county is not to exceed $950 annually, while $1,000 is to be provided by the town.

The resolution authorizes the chairman of the Board of Supervisors to enter into such an agreement with the town. It was carried by 30 votes with abstentions by Supervisors Mabie and Clarence C. Raichle (12 Ward). Installation of 20 lights in the interchange circle was approved earlier this week by the State Department of Public Works.

Robert Strickland, lighting engineer for Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., worked out the cost for the lighting project, which was set at $1,899.

The Town of Ulster unanimously passed a resolution at its Wednesday night meeting to provide further wiring and maintenance installations at the lighting project site which will be constructed by the state.

Supervisors Mabie and Raichle, employees of Central Hudson, abstained from voting on the lighting project resolution after their voting legality was questioned on an earlier vote on the basis of a possible "conflict of interest."

Mabie had spoken on the resolution calling for design and development of the oil system at the Community College. He said that Central Hudson contributed greatly to the county's economy and was a leading contributor to the county tax rolls. He said the company had 1,500 stockholders and some 275 employees residing in the county.

Before the resolution went to vote, Supervisor Bell said he thought that since two supervisors were employees of Central Hudson and the resolution dealt with oil heating at the college campus, there might be a possibility that they "should abstain from voting."

He asked for an opinion from County Attorney Arthur A. Davis, who told the board that since Mabie and Raichle, who was not identified by name along with Mabie, were only employees of the utility and not corporation officers, there was no conflict of interest involved.

The resolution was defeated by a vote of 20-9 with Board Chairman Phinney joining Mabie and Raichle in abstaining.

Mabie and Raichle were encouraged to exercise their right to vote by other board members, but declined. They said that they declined to vote on the traffic lighting resolution for the same reason: that Central Hudson was involved in the project.

Architect Augustus Schrowang Jr. told the supervisors that the indecision on how the college will be heated cost a delay of six weeks in the building schedule and meant that the heating system cannot be installed by this fall. It was the third time the proposal for oil heating was defeated.

The vote to table the resolution on the $45,000 site for site development at the County Office Building was 26-6.

Supervisor John B. Quimby in the board, asked whether the site development couldn't be done by using county department labor with the possibility of matching funds. Supervisor Relyea said, "If you want it the way the plans are laid out, you're going to have to pay for it."

The resolution was referred back to the Building Committee for an alternate plan.

The vote to demolish the former County Health building for a parking site was carried by a vote of 20-12. Appraisals of the existing structure ranged from "old decrepit" to "it would make a fine professional building." Estimates as to the number of cars which could be accommodated in the proposed parking area ranged from 32 to 50.

Majestic Dissents
A resolution on the preparation of advertisements and specifications was carried 31-1 with Supervisor George Majestic (D-Gardiner) the lone dissenter.

Majestic asked why certain items weren't put on bids. He said that in many instances the county attorney didn't see certain contracts.

Chairman Phinney withdrew his own resolution on the purchase of the truck from Syracuse Truck Sales on the grounds that the bids were advertised in only one newspaper.

In other business, the board: Voted to consider providing tenure for all Ulster County employees after five years of service, and authorized the board chairman to refer such a resolution to the Salary Study Committee with instructions to submit a report of its findings by no later than the September meeting.

Approved the Welfare Committee Report on Surplus Food Program and authorized the transfer of $7,000 from the County Contingent Fund Account to the Welfare Department Accounts for the purchase of surplus food and the distribution of and administration of the program.

Authorized transfer of funds from the County Contingent Fund to the District Attorney's Fund and Sheriff's Account, and called on the sheriff to communicate with the Department of Correction to investigate the possibility of building a barracks type structure on the County Farm in New Paltz for the purpose of incarcerating County Jail inmates while they are on assigned farm details.

Raised the salary schedule of probation officer from $3,440 to $3,500, with the state to reimburse the county 50 per cent of the salary.

Conferees OK'd
The board also authorized Dr. Vernon B. Link, county health commissioner, to attend an administrative conference in Albany, and District Attorney Joseph Torracca to attend a district attorneys' annual convention at Mackinac Island, Mich.

There was a question raised as to the distance involved in the DA's convention, but the supervisors were told that the representation involved the county district attorney and not one of his staff.

Ralph Ricketson, sealer of weights and measures, also was authorized to attend a technical training course at Alfred University.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

Investment Advisor and Analyst
Long Range Growth
Advised for Objective

(Q) "I am a young man just past 20. I have $4,000 in the savings bank. I want to invest $1,000 and would like you to recommend a stock to build up my present savings."

(A) "If you will allow me, I'm going to advise you a little about investment objectives for a young man. You have many long years ahead of you before retirement, and you appear to be thrifty. For a person in your position, I believe your investment goal should be long-range growth, which can enhance your capital considerably when retirement comes along."

Stocks that provide income rarely have good growth prospects. Shares which have demonstrated their ability to expand in earnings, dividends and price normally add little to current income.

I'm going to recommend that you buy Eastman Kodak, which would not now add much to your earnings, but over a period of years—through continual dividend increases—should show you a very large return on your present cost.

(Q) "We are both 60 and have had high medical expenses for the past ten years. In a short time an insurance endowment of $10,000 falls due. We would like to get the best possible return with maximum safety. We have considered Treasury bonds; U. S. Savings Bonds and Morris Plan stock."

(A) Please first let me express my sincere sympathy on the illnesses which have brought such high medical expenses. You are a little too young at 60 to draw a large return (including some part of principal) from a joint and survivorship annuity.

Morris Plan is a relatively sound stock in the personal loan business, but I do not feel it is free enough from earnings and price fluctuation to constitute the right investment for people like yourselves.

For complete security and price stability, I would buy Series H savings bonds, which pay you four per cent by government check after holding one-and-a-half years.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

I had the good fortune to return from the Woodstock Library Fair in company with Frederic Snyder and we talked about many things, but never mentioned the Stone Ridge Fair, so I completely forgot about it, and missed it this year. Mrs. Ora Sager, collector of Ulster County and Catskill Mountains items, telephoned me to tell me she missed me and a number of my friends who asked her why I was not there. I just want to thank all my old friends and readers who asked for me at the Stone Ridge Fair and I had every intention of being there, but perhaps there was not enough publicity on it, for I meant to go, and the weather was so nice.

Mr. Snyder wrote me and sent the chairman design on the Fulton cover (which I am working on for the first July issue covers to take place at our Central Post Office on Aug. 19) to Major Andrew Mannsine at West Point, as the major gives a superb lecture on the chain across the Hudson so the design was just right. Mr. Snyder also is interested in the Fulton biography insert in the cachet covers (envelopes) which I wrote.

Mr. Snyder sent me an interesting letter after this trip from Woodstock as we had a chance to see how dry the reservoir and other sections were. It seems, in the early 1900's Mr. Snyder worked for the J. O. Winston Co. in the construction of the Ashokan Reservoir, and so Mr. Snyder realized the importance of conservation and distribution of water. Later the late Gov. Alfred E. Smith provided credentials used to gain the skilled guidance of the main advanced hydrologists in Europe. Mr. Snyder accompanied the famous Dr. Paul Haertl on his surveys of national springs and watersheds in the United States. The states of New York, Georgia and California took far reaching steps on the counsel of the experts.

In 1948 Mr. Snyder prompted the executives in New York City to stage a ceremony of Thanksgiving for the Catskill Mountain water blessings. In 1955 he inspired the Livingston Manor Rotary Club to organize a motorcade to visit the reservoirs in a wide area. For the first time in history, clergy of the Catholic, Jewish and Protestant faiths, led the visitors in devotional exercises of praise for the providential gift of water and for the lives sacrificed to build the conduits.

Since then in Ohio and at far points Mr. Snyder has conducted crusades for water conservation and protection from pollution. Always without compensation, a contributed service. Right now posters are being done by artists, to use in the New York City crisis, (1965) Wonders by Mr. Snyder are now in wide use. He harrows the point that ethical observers judged a nation on how it earned and distributed its bread. Now they can add the inquiry as to how they discover and distribute life-giving water supplies. He stresses that this nation owes nothing to the selfish. The modern savage is the selfish man. He concludes with: "We must do battle with all who waste water and all who poison it or keep it from being a circulatory blessing to all."

One does not realize the blessing of water until the well runs dry. I remember our Port Ewen well never ran dry, now luckily there is plenty of water in Port Ewen, due to such men as Mr. Buddenhagen of Port Ewen who was one of the men on the committee who brought it about. I visit other communities and find some near their sink. "Do Not Waste Water." With progress came waste of water, and waste in water from large plants, and from private individuals with various prisons to kill insects or weeds. This is all later washed down into the water supply. Progress with one hand gives and with the other hand takes away and makes us all slaves.

It was noted that in the purchase of the addressograph machine the cost will be shared by the city and water department. Enlargement of the Cooper Lake dam to increase storage at an estimated cost of $50,000 had recently been referred to the Common Council.

Mayor John J. Schwenk in a recent letter to Alderman John Machione (R) 12th ward, who heads the council's finance committee proposed consideration of the possibility of gaining the city more water at lower cost by use of Echo Lake on Overlook Mountain and the Sawkill watershed.

Results of last night's discussion of this are to be forwarded to the council's committee. At the meeting were: Melvin Mones, board president; commissioners Paul J. Schatzel, David P. Conway, Thomas M. Davitt, and William F. Leehive, consulting engineers Charles Mangano and Clifford Gold, and Superintendent Cloonan.

Weds Raymond A. Maxim of Fleischmanns

On August 7, 1965, a 4 o'clock wedding ceremony was held in the Shandaken Methodist Church for Patricia Ann Jones, daughter of Mrs. Frank Jones Sr., of Shandaken, N. Y., and Raymond A. Maxim, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Maxim of Fleischmanns, N. Y.

Officiating clergyman was the Rev. Richard Tait.

The bride's matron of honor was Mrs. Stanley Kratochvil, sister of the bridegroom, Rosalie Boland, the bride's sister, and Mabel Lawton of Kingston, were the other attendants.

The bride's uncle, Marshall Storey Jr., gave her in marriage. She wore a white full length gown of crepe in sheath style. A floral headpiece held a short veil and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

The matron of honor wore a short gown of teal blue crepe with white accessories and a bouquet of blue and white carnations. The attendants were attired in dark rose gowns of chiffon over taffeta. They wore white accessories and carried bouquets of pink and white carnations.

Robert Jones of Shandaken, N. Y., brother of the bride, was best man. Ushering were Berton Maxim, brother of the bridegroom, and Richard Decker, the bride's cousin.

Mrs. Maxim is a graduate of Ontario Central School and is employed as a waitress by the Gold Star Restaurant in Kingston. Her husband, an alumnus of Fleischmanns High School, served three years with the U. S. Army, two of which were spent

CHANGING INTO COMFORTABLE CLOTHES FOR LONG PLANE TRIP

Q: Will you please tell me if it is permissible, when taking a long flight, for passengers to change into more comfortable clothes after boarding the plane, or must they remain in their traveling clothes throughout the flight?

A: Women may change into slacks and bedroom slippers during the flight and men are entirely free to remove their jackets, loosen or remove their ties, or change into a sport shirt.

Wearing Flowers to Wedding

Q: I went to a friend's wedding last week and wore a corsage of fresh flowers on my dress. The dress was black and I thought the flowers would brighten it up. I was criticized for wearing a corsage and was told that only the members of the immediate families wore flowers at a wedding. I never heard of this before and would like to know if there is any such rule of etiquette.

A: There is no such rule. Any guest who wishes to do so, may wear flowers.

Typewritten Thank-You Note

Q: I received a thank-you note in yesterday's mail for a wedding present I sent to a young bride. I was quite taken back when I opened the envelope and found the note had been typewritten. Maybe I'm old-fashioned, but this struck me as being in bad taste, and almost as rude as a printed thank-you card. I would like to know if typewritten notes are acceptable in the present day?

A: Long, chatty letters may quite properly be typewritten, and indeed are much to be preferred to those written in a hard-to-read handwriting, but a bride's thank-you notes must be written in longhand.

Joint Gift From Engaged Couple

Q: My fiancé and I have each received an invitation to the wedding and reception of mutual friends. I would like to know if it would be proper for us to send a joint gift?

A: If your engagement has been announced, it will be quite proper to send a single gift in both your names.

The correct wording and addressing of wedding invitations and announcements are described in the Emily Post Institute booklet entitled "Wedding Invitations and Announcements." Suppers

St. Colman Church

The annual buffet supper sponsored by the Altar-Rosary Society of St. Colman's Church, East Kingston, is scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 14th, in the East Kingston firehouse.

Supper will be served from 5 to 7 p. m. Public is cordially invited to attend. Special events are also planned.

MRS. LESTER E. WOOD (Photo Workshop)

St. Colman's Church Is Wedding Scene For Angela Berardi, Lester E. Wood

For her wedding to Lester Ellsworth Wood on August 8, at 2 p. m. in St. Colman's Church East Kingston, Angela Patricia Berardi wore a sheath style gown of silk organza and Chantilly lace with a full bouffant train. Her silk illusion veil was shirred to a double pillbox of matching lace and she carried a cascade of orchids, stephanotis and ivy.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Emma Berardi of Rt. 1, Box 251, Kingston, and the late Thomas Berardi. She was given in marriage by her brother-in-law Joseph Mitchell Jr.

The Rev. Vincent Brennan, pastor of St. Colman's, was the officiating clergyman during the double ring ceremony. Traditional wedding music was provided by organist Thomas Berardi and Robert Gallo was soloist.

Baskets of white carnations decorated the church and the pews were marked with white satin ribbon.

Miss Helen Quinn Weds Kingston Man

On Thursday, Aug. 12, Miss Helen Quinn of Larchmont wed Thomas J. Stuart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stuart of Kingston. The wedding took place in St. Augustine's Church, Mamaroneck, with the Rev. Vincent McShane officiating. Vows were exchanged during a nuptial mass.

Miss Quinn is the daughter of Mrs. Thomas Quinn of 5 Woodbine Avenue, Larchmont. A wedding reception was held at the Quinn home immediately after the church ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Thomas Quinn of Washington, D.C. She wore a white peau de soie gown accented with reemboirered Alencon lace and seed pearls. She also wore a mantilla style lace veil and carried white roses with miniature ivy and baby's breath.

Matron of honor for her sister was Mrs. Thompson Flint of Larchmont. She wore an empire styled gown of organza over blue silk. Her bouquet consisted of blue delphinium, blues, snowdrift and ivy.

Nell Hanson of Larchmont was junior bridesmaid for her aunt. She wore an embroidered Swiss organza and carried a basket of blue delphinium, blues, snowdrift and miniature ivy.

Bart C. Stuart of Kingston, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and ushering were Edward P. O'Brien of Warwick, R.I., and Patrick McGowan of Dobbs Ferry.

The bride is a graduate of the Ursulin School and Marymount College. She received her masters from State University College at New Paltz.

Mr. Stuart is a graduate of State University College, New Paltz. He earned BS and MS degrees and received the MST degree from Cornell University. He is a science teacher at Port Chester Junior High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart will reside in Larchmont when they return from a wedding trip to Mexico.

Reception Planned For August 28th; Sisterhood Group

On Wednesday, Aug. 4th, nine members of Sisterhood Ahavath Israel attended a Leadership Training Course given in the vestry hall of the synagogue. It was conducted by Mrs. Henry Slutsky of Albany, N. Moscow Philharmonic to Tour U. S., Canada

MOSCOW (AP) — The Moscow Philharmonic Orchestra is going to feature works by modern Soviet composers on its three-month tour this fall in the United States, Canada, Mexico and Britain.

Announcing the repertoire, the Soviet news agency Tass said the programs would not be confined to symphonies by Mozart or Beethoven, or "popular overtures and flashy pieces designed to show off the virtuoso potentialities of the company."

Instead, it said, "the orchestra has decided to offer foreign audiences works which are closest to its artistic makeup." It said half the repertoire would consist of Soviet music.

It will be the orchestra's first trip to America. It has appeared previously in Britain. It will leave in mid-October.

10th Annual Rapid Hose Bazaar Set Tonight, Saturday

The 10th annual two-day bazaar of Rapid Hose Co. No. 1 and Ladies' Auxiliary opens tonight at 7 o'clock in front of the firehouse, Hone Street.

The firemen and the auxiliary members, who have issued an invitation to their friends and neighbors to attend the event, report many various booths and games will highlight this year's bazaar.

Gerard Kelder Sr. and Mrs. Dennis Lenahan are co-chairmen of the 1965 program.

The bazaar also will be held Saturday night, again starting at 7 o'clock.

"BARGAIN" MEDICINE

BITTER PILL
to Swallow

"Cheap" is never the best. The best is never "cheap." Nowhere else is this truism truer than in prescribed medicine. For it is impossible to cut prices without cutting either — or both — the quality of the ingredients or the professional service. As a result, "bargain medicine" may be a bitter pill to swallow because it fails to produce the results anticipated by the doctor — or the economy hoped for by the patient. Award Winning Musical Will Close Season At Woodstock Playhouse; 'A Funny Thing'

Six Tony Awards were won in 1963 by a musical which will be on the stage of the Woodstock Playhouse starting August 24.

The play is "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum." It was written by Burt Shevelove and Larry Gelbart with music and lyrics by Stephen Sondheim. Sondheim also did the lyrics for "East Side Story," and "Gypsy."

"A Funny Thing," has all the earmarks of slapstick: conniving slaves overamorous young lovers, lecherous old men domineering wives, seductive courtesans and bragging soldiers. The boisterous musical farce takes place in the

Theatre Exhibit

An exhibit of theatre designs and sketches by artist Anton Refregier is on display in the lobby of the Woodstock Playhouse.

In the exhibit are sketches originally done for LIFE magazine of the 1945 production of Anouilh's "Antigone," which starred Katharine Cornell and the late Sir Cedric Hardwicke.

The exhibit also includes several sketches of dancer Anna Sokolow in a performance at Saratoga Springs in 1936, and Sir Ralph Richardson as Falstaff in a 1944 production of "Henry IV."

Most amusing are sketches of audiences at intermission, which first appeared in NEW MASSES.

This rare collection of theatre art is on display for the first time.

Bard College Is Film Background For 'The Prince'

Annandale-on-Hudson, N. Y.—James E. Hubbard of Germantown is currently editing a feature-length motion picture called "The Prince," a major portion of which was shot on the Bard College campus.

Due to be released in the spring, "The Prince" is a satiric farce on the Presidency set some 50 or 60 years in the future.

Three historic Bard College buildings will appear in the movie. Blithewood Mansion serves as the White House, and Ward Manor and the Schuyler House in Rhinebeck provide some interior sets. Other local filming took place at The House of History in Kinderhook and at the Frederick Church's Olana Castle near Hudson.

Mr. Hubbard and two colleagues, Graeme Ferguson and Severn Darden of New York City, began working on the film in January, shortly after Mr. Hubbard's return from a three-year filming tour in the Middle East. Mr. Hubbard, who is the movie's executive producer, and Mr. Ferguson, the cameraman and director, have each had considerable experience making documentary films for motion pictures and television, and together they produced the film "New Orleans Mardi Gras" for Walt Disney a few years ago.

Mr. Darden, the leading actor in "The Prince," is one of the original members of the "Second City" theatre group. Counting Mike Nichols and Elaine May among its other charter members, the Second City group got its start in Chicago, but its special improvisatory technique is now being used in theatres across the country.

Tree House

Would you like summer living in a tree house? Then build a deck on the garage roof—if it's a flat roof. The deck can be built in squares in the basement. Squares are then easily transported to rooftop and installed in checkerboard pattern. Squares also can be lifted up at any time for maintenance required by the roof. Use Douglas fir for best performance.

Wendy Campers Go On Nature Walk; Learn Conservation

Henry Dunbar, naturalist of Lomontville, representing the Mid-Hudson Catskill Museum group which is presently working on plans for an area Nature Museum, led two troops of girls from Ulster County's Camp Wendy on a nature walk recently.

Nature came alive for this group as they observed the cinnamon stalks of the cinnamon fern and the down along the stalk which might be used to line a hummingbird's nest; felt the smooth gray twisted wood of the ironwood tree; examined the tiny rootlets of a bit of duck weed scooped up from the pond; observed the jewel-like droplets of dew on the leaf of a jewelweed or touch-me-not; looked at the seed-pod of the arum lily; compared the leaves of the red and sugar maple; found a tulip tree, a sassafras with its three different leaves, the ghostly Indian pipe, striped wintergreen beneath a beech tree; compared the aspens — the quaking, the large-toothed and the cottonwood; learned names of vines — some of the leaves of the Virginia creeper already rosy-red, some very healthy poison ivy completely covering a dead tree, the rose-brown blooms of the ground nut.

Discovery was part of it. They cut open a green lumpy fruit-like gall from a wild grape and found a tiny golden grub inside. They stopped now and then to listen to a bird song and learn its name and occasionally to see some clearly — a pair of cedar wax-wing, a goldfinch swinging from a vine, a pair of black ducks on a secluded part of the lake, picturesque against a bank of purple loosestrife.

Conservation was covered too. They were made aware of some of the things at camp which shouldn't be picked — the pinkster dogwood, club-mosses, the Indian pipe, and striped wintergreen, and shown what could happen when you carved into a living tree or stripped it of its bark.

A donation was given the Museum group in the name of Girl Scouting by Mrs. David Fox, who acts as nature counselor at Camp Wendy two days each week.

VFW Auxiliary Plans Programs For Next Season

Members of Joyce-Schirick Auxiliary 1386, VFW enjoyed an annual picnic on Tuesday, Aug. 10 prior to a regular meeting.

Plans were made for a chicken supper on September 25; annual card party in October; and purchase of sleeping bags for Post-sponsored by Boy Scout troop. The new draperies for the hall are ready and will be hung as soon as painting and other renovations have been completed, it was announced.

Reports included the August 1 county meeting held in Olive Bridge as guests of the Shokan Post. The next county meeting will be held in New Paltz on Sept. 12.

Membership has reached an all time high and Mrs. Edward Arnold, chairman, announced that the 1966 membership aim will be 100 per cent by December 31, 1965.

Mrs. Sidney Lane was elected delegate to National Convention and will leave for Chicago this week to represent the auxiliary. She also plans to visit the VFW National Home in Eaton Rapids, Mich.

A committee was formed to take action on the hospital closet supplies. This service has been in great demand in this community. It is reported, but in some instances beds and wheelchairs have been on loan for a year or more and some have been returned in poor condition. This committee will meet on August 26 to consider new rules and regulations for the use of these supplies.

Mrs. Jacob Senor, auxiliary president, invites all eligible women to become members of this organization and also to continue their letter writing campaign against the closing of veterans' administration facilities in New York.

Linda Bea Canning Weds Donald Deyo

On Sunday, Aug. 8, Miss Linda Bea Canning of Tallman, N.Y., daughter of the late Herbert L. and Beatrice Whittaker Canning, and Donald F. Deyo, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Deyo of Ballston Spa, were joined in marriage at a Nuptial Mass in the Trinity Episcopal Church in Saugerties by the Rev. Richard G. Shepherd, rector. The altar was decorated with floral arrangements of white gladioli and yellow daisies.

The bride, given in marriage by Douglas Swart, wore a street length dress of white net over taffeta and a headpiece of white roses. She carried an arrangement of yellow roses on a prayer book with satin streamers.

As her matron of honor, Mrs. Dale Trojan of Highland Mills, wore a blue linen street length dress with white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Serving as his best man Mr. Deyo had his brother John Deyo of Ballston Spa.

A reception for the immediate families was held at Het Steenen Huis, home of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Swart in High Woods. Mr. and Mrs. Deyo left on a wedding trip through Canada and Niagara Falls. For traveling, the bride wore a yellow and white linen eyeslet suit and a corsage of yellow roses.

Mrs. Deyo was graduated from Suffern High School and Lenox Hill Hospital School of Nursing. Mr. Deyo, who served with the U.S. Marine Corps in Korea, was graduated from Ballston Spa High School. He is attending Fairleigh Dickinson University and is employed by Lederle Laboratories in Pearl River, N.Y.

New Paltz Players Schedule Student Production on 18th

Louisiana Pushing Test

Seems Sure Thing Supreme Court to Uphold New Vote Law

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Predicting what the Supreme Court will do is an unhappy pastime but it seems a perfect bet the court will uphold the constitutionality of the 1965 voting rights law.

The law's purpose is to end the various devices used in the South to keep Negroes, because they're Negroes, from voting. It authorizes the government to do this by moving in on the states. The government has moved fast.

Is this new law constitutional? A court test is being pushed in Louisiana. Another is expected from South Carolina. This means the Supreme Court should get the case quickly for a decision.

Inevitable Argument

The inevitable argument against a law like this, approved by Congress earlier this month, is that it infringes on the right of states to fix their own voter qualifications and rules.

But the government has pushed the 1965 law directly to the Constitution's 15th Amendment which says the right to vote "shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or any state" because of race or color.

It also says Congress "shall have the power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation."

This is the government's position: Would-be Negro voters have been discriminated against because of their color, thus violating the 15th Amendment, and that therefore, under this amendment, Congress had the right to pass the 1965 law.

The attorney general, Nicholas Katzenbach, told Congress "the Supreme Court has never voided a statute limited to enforcement of the 15th Amendment's prohibition against discrimination in voting."

Experts Confident

Last March the New York Times, in a nationwide check, interviewed some of this country's top constitutional law professors and most were confident the Supreme Court would uphold the new law.

There are other reasons for thinking the court will do just that:

Its previous rulings in this voting field and the fact that the present court has been a sturdy and consistent champion of civil rights and protection of the Negro's constitutional guarantees.

Besides, the South's history of discrimination is against it. Most recently only a small percentage of Negroes, compared with whites, were registered to vote in the 1964 election.

The chief target of the act is the voting test which can vary widely from requiring a would-be Negro voter to interpret the Constitution to proving he is of "good moral character." The literacy test is a prime example.

The new law says literacy tests and similar voter qualifications suspended in any state or county which used them last November if less than 50 per cent of the voting age residents were registered on that date or voted in the 1964 presidential election.

States in Category

In this category are Alabama, Alaska, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, Virginia, an estimated 34 counties in North Carolina, and one county each in Arizona, Idaho and Maine.

But the main target is the South. And federal examiners can be sent in to register the Negroes or whites who have been barred from voting because of the literacy tests.

This year in a landmark decision the Supreme Court threw out a section of Louisiana law requiring would-be voters to interpret the Constitution.

Language of Opinion

Justice Hugo Black, writing the opinion, said: "As evidence showed, colored people, even some with the most advanced education and scholarship, were declared by voting registrars with less education to have an unsatisfactory understanding of the Constitution."

"This is not a test but a trap sufficient to stop even the most brilliant man on the way to the voting booth."

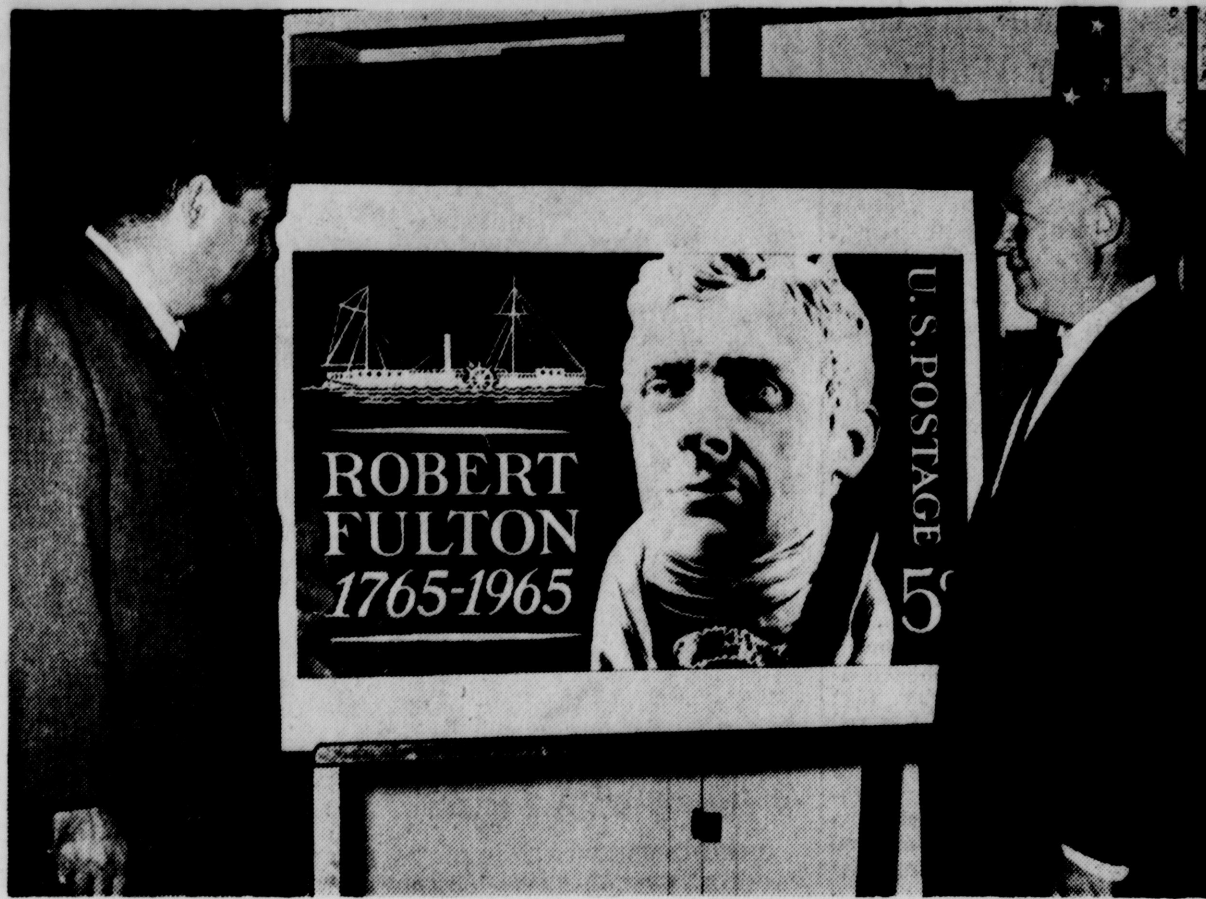

Black said this violated the 15th Amendment's prohibition against discrimination in voting. The court took the same action, and for basically the same reason, in knocking out a similar Alabama law in 1949.

The court's decisions on voting rights go back to the 1870s, sometimes strong, once, in the 1930s the court permitted broad voting discrimination against Negroes but soon reversed itself.

The court, which has ruled out discrimination against Negroes in its various forms with increasing force over recent years, isn't likely to stop now.

More Ice Cream Here

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York State led the nation in production of ice cream in 1964 for the fourth straight year, the State Agriculture Department says. Last year's production of 77,657,000 gallons was a record for the state and exceeded the 1963 total by more than 1.5 million gallons, the department said.

ADMIRE FULTON-CLERMONT STAMP—The Robert Fulton Commemorative Stamp which will have First Day ceremonies in Clermont, Columbia County on Thursday, Aug. 19, will be the subject of Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick's television broadcast on station WRGB, Channel 6, on a "REPORT FROM WASHINGTON" show Sunday from 11:15 to 11:30 a. m. On this show,

Mr. Resnick (D-28th District) will discuss with Deputy Postmaster General, Frederick C. Belen, (right) the main speaker at the First Day ceremony, the background of the stamp along with other incidents relating to commemorative stamps. Featured on this show will be a large blow-up of the stamp.

Crystallography Site Dedicated

BUFFALO—The first building specifically devoted to the science of crystallography in the United States was dedicated today at Roswell Park Memorial Institute, New York State's cancer research and treatment center in Buffalo.

Constructed of concrete block, the 60 ft. by 100 ft., two-story building costing $397,000 is a separate structure in the over four-square block area of buildings making up Roswell Park Memorial Institute. The new facility is located on Michigan north of Carlton Street. It is connected to the Roswell Park Computer Center by a one-story glassed-in passageway.

On the program for the dedication were Dr. George E. Moore, Director of Roswell Park Memorial Institute; Dr. Elizabeth A. Wood, member of the technical staff of the Bell Telephone Laboratories, and past president of the American Crystallographic Association; Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham, Commissioner of Health, New York State Department of Health; Dr. David D. Keck, Deputy Director of the Division of Biological and Medical Sciences, National Science Foundation; and Dr. David Harker, Director of Biophysics, Roswell Park Memorial Institute, and Director of the Institute's new Center for Crystallographic Research.

The new Center is financed with a grant of $197,000 from the National Science Foundation, a $100,000 loan, and $100,000 from the New York State Department of Health. Funds for the center are administered by Health Research, Inc., Roswell Park Division.

Will Be Tough To Get Albany Back, Says Spad

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Republicans have "only a slim chance" of recapturing both houses of the Legislature in the November election, GOP State Chairman Carl Spad said today.

Spad told the summer conference of the State Federation of Women's Republican Clubs that the party should approach the election with no illusions.

"This is a tough assignment," he declared in remarks prepared for delivery at the meeting.

Spad said the GOP was "mobilizing an intensive legislative campaign which has never been equalled in our party's history."

He then referred obliquely to Democratic claims that the legislative reapportionment plan devised by the "lame-duck" 1964 Legislature had been written to assure a return to GOP control.

"Despite all the Democratic propaganda," he said, "we have only a slim chance to win back both the Senate and Assembly under Plan A. A slim chance, that is, unless we all get out and work harder than we've been accustomed to."

Roz Says Yacht Guest Was Wife Of Peter Lawford

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The "mystery" guest aboard Frank Sinatra's yacht as it docked off Hyannis Port, Mass., was Mrs. Peter Lawford, says actress Rosalind Russell.

Miss Russell, a guest aboard the chartered yacht as it cruised in New England waters, made the identification from a photograph after she flew here Wednesday night from New York. She left the cruise early to start work in a movie.

Photographers had identified the yacht visitor as Mrs. John F. Kennedy, widow of the President.

"That's Pat Lawford," Miss Russell said as she looked at the picture taken last Saturday of guests boarding the yacht. Mrs. Lawford, wife of the actor, is a sister of the late President. "Jackie was never aboard," said Miss Russell.

BABSON on BUSINESS

By ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Park, Mass., Aug. 13—Since President Johnson gave his talk on the attitude of our government regarding Vietnam, there has been a general feeling that the public might get excited over a possible shortage of consumer goods and rush to the stores to stock up. This is what happened after the Korean War really got "hot."

Conditions Different Now

When people talk today about possible shortages of consumer goods as a result of war-scared buying, they should remember that the situation is quite different from what it was fifteen years ago. At that time, the country had not made up the big World War II deficiencies in cars and household goods owned by our citizens. So when the Korean War grew in size, men and women who had thought they had plenty of time to replace worn-out refrigerators, vacuum cleaners, radios, etc., panicked and cleaned out merchandisers' shelves.

Now, when we look into our neighbors' homes, we find that the so-called invisible consumer inventories of nearly all kinds of hard and soft goods are close to record levels. And most yards and garages have not just one, but two or more, shiny automobiles. Certainly, even a much bigger war in Vietnam than President Johnson now talks about could hardly bring on a wave of consumer buying like that touched off by the Korean scare.

Merchandisers Should Avoid

Panic Stocking
Merchandising methods too have changed markedly since 1950. Huge shopping centers, vast centrally located warehouses, computer-operated inventory-control systems were just on the drafting boards for most store chains when the Korean War broke out. Today such modern merchandising tools are commonplace. Economists have said lately that the new methods of storekeeping have gone a long way toward warding off the old-fashioned sequence of boom and bust. Improved warehouse techniques—interconnected with stores, and with a central control by electronic data processing—have made it possible for merchants to avoid over-stocking of inventories. By keeping their shelves relatively clear of pile-ups, the need for hasty liquidation of stocks—bringing competitive pressure on other merchandisers—have been largely eliminated.

However, regardless of the marvelous new systems of merchandising and inventory control that have been developed, it is not the wires and the computers that operate the vast chains and the beautiful shopping centers. It is the men behind the systems that still "call the shots." If they panic and decide to overstock their warehouses and shelves, we could still have an old-fashioned inventory "bust."

Events Hold the Answer

At this moment, it seems pretty certain that the war in Vietnam will be greatly stepped up during the months ahead. That should mean a greater emphasis on the production of goods that will be used to advance the war effort. As consumers see production being directed more and more toward the materials of war, they may crowd into the stores to add to their already bulging home inventories.

Nevertheless, we do not believe that any wave of consumer scare buying would last long or be of great size—for the reasons given above. The real danger in any rush to the stores would be its effect on the attitude of the managers of the big chains. If they should "tell" their computers to load up on all kinds of goods, we could see a sharp run-up in prices and a buildup for later trouble. Nor do we believe that a sudden "peace scare" is impossible. The Communists may make moves toward negotiation if they find their "summer monsoon" offensive has not defeated the South Vietnamese or scared the Americans off. And sudden peace news would immediately halt any consumer rush to buy goods at climbing prices.

Panic in Consumer Goods

Could Result
Indeed, if merchants should lose their heads in any war scare buildup of inventories, they could be laying the groundwork for later forced liquidation. With the present modern warehousing and electronic control methods, such an overstocking of goods certainly is not necessary. Hence, regardless of developments in the weeks ahead, smart merchants will not "go overboard" in adding to inventories.

Wheat Purchase Shows Soviet Supply Short

MOSCOW (AP) — The big new Soviet purchase of wheat from Canada confirms that the Soviet Union is having another bad harvest, informed observers said today.

They put that interpretation on an announcement in Winnipeg that Canada will sell the Soviet Union almost five million metric tons of wheat in the next 12 months.

There had been indications that the Soviet wheat crop would be below average this year, primarily because of a lack of rain east of the Volga River.

The size of the new purchase indicates the crop will be far below average. Drought in 1963 first sent the Soviet Union, a traditional exporter of wheat, into world markets to buy 12 million tons.

A Message to Enrolled Republicans
From Arthur A. Davis, Jr.

As you may know, I am a candidate for the Republican Party nomination for Judge of the Ulster County Surrogate's Court at the Primary Election to hold September 14, 1965.

I wish to briefly state the reasons why I am running for this office.

Let me say, first of all, that I would not be in this primary race if I didn't feel as strongly as I do about the office of Surrogate. These campaigns are costly and require exhausting efforts on the part of all concerned. However, they do serve a need; they do provide a safeguard for voter and candidate alike. A primary such as the one I am entered in gives the enrolled voters a final opportunity to hear the issues, evaluate the candidate and make their decision. Similarly, it gives the candidate a final opportunity to express his opinion and bring his view directly to the people.

Now, why am I a candidate? There are but two basic reasons:

1. I know that I am qualified by education, experience and temperament to hold this high judicial office. In particular I have had considerable experience in the Surrogate Court with both large and small estates in contested and uncontested matters. On several occasions the Surrogate has requested me to appear and represent infants and others who are unable to protect their own interests. During the past 11 years while I have been County Attorney, my record and reputation as an attorney has become well known. I have represented Ulster County, its officers and employees in all types of civil law matters. I have assisted town officials and Republican Party representatives on innumerable occasions and for the past several years have been designated as law committee chairman for the Ulster County Republican Committee. If a further discussion of my qualifications is desired, I stand ready to appear before any person or group for such a purpose.

2. The second reason is a direct matter of principle. I feel that the office of Surrogate Judge should be occupied ONLY by the most qualified candidate available. There should be no other consideration—no other standard of selection. By filing a designating petition for nomination as the Republican candidate for the office of Judge of the Ulster County Surrogate's Court I am giving the selection of the candidate who will represent the Republican Party. You, the enrolled Republican voters, will choose the candidate you wish to have as the Republican candidate for the office of Surrogate.

I now make of you but one request. Please become informed of the issues. Ask questions. Talk to your attorney, or, for that matter, any attorney. These are the men who are in a position to evaluate the credentials for this high office. Don't let apathy replace judgment at the polls. Find out the facts.

Sincerely,
ARTHUR A. DAVIS, Jr.

Second to Fifth Orbits

Rendezvous Looms As Highlight of Upcoming Flight

NASA Discloses Plans
In disclosing details of the flight plan today, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the rendezvous maneuver would be conducted from the second to the fifth orbits. It will be a rehearsal for the Gemini 6 flight scheduled in October, during which Navy Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra Jr., and Air Force Maj. Thomas P. Stafford are to try to link up their spacecraft with another satellite.

The space agency said the flight was scheduled to start Thursday at 9 a.m. (EST) from Cape Kennedy, with a Titan 2 rocket serving as the booster. Gemini 5 is to settle initially into an orbit ranging from 100 to 219 miles high — 43 miles higher than any U.S. astronaut has flown, but short of the Soviet record of 307 miles.

191-Hour Flight
The flight is to last 191 hours 53 minutes, just seven minutes shy of eight days and will end with a landing in the western Atlantic, about 500 miles southwest of Bermuda. Cooper and Conrad are to circle the globe 121 times.

The time would break the world record of 4 days 23 hours 6 minutes, held by Soviet cosmonaut Valery Bykovsky. The U.S. record, set in June by Air Force Lt. Col. James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II, is just one minute short of four days.

Cooper, who made a 34-hour flight in the Mercury program and who seeks to be the first man to orbit twice, and Conrad will carry their rendezvous satellite with them, packing it in an equipment section at the base of the spacecraft. The satellite is called REP (all caps) for Radar Evaluation Pod.

During orbit No. 2, 2 hours and 7 minutes after launching, Cooper will press a switch and explosive devices will kick the 76-pound REP into a separate orbit alongside Gemini 5.

No. 4 Orbit Due

Then command pilot Cooper will switch the Gemini 5 orbit

so the craft gradually falls behind the satellite to a distance of about 52 miles. Then, using a radar system, an on-board computer and jet thrusters, Cooper will begin chasing the REP across the skies. If there are no hitches, he should catch it during orbit No. 4 moving to within 20 feet of it.

Gemini 5 will circle the REP for nearly an hour so that Conrad can photograph it from various angles. The radar system, elements of which are in both the spacecraft and the REP, is identical to that which Schirra and Stafford will use for the Gemini 6 docking maneuver.

After completing the rendezvous, Cooper and Conrad will settle down to the long haul in space — on a flight which equals the roundtrip time planned for the first team of moon-bound United States astronauts.

The four-day flight of McDivitt and White gave medical experts confidence that man can survive prolonged exposure to space weightlessness. But they say the only way to be certain is to put men in orbit for longer and longer periods and watch them closely. A 14-day Gemini mission is scheduled later this year.

While whirling around the globe, Cooper and Conrad will perform a total of 17 different medical, scientific and technological experiments. They range from photographing weather, land and celestial features, looking for missiles launched from earth, conversing with Navy Cmdr. M. Scott Carpenter in a diving bell 200 feet beneath the surface of the Pacific, periodically checking eyesight and making radiation and other measurements.

Red Hook Names 4 Teachers to Staff

Four new teachers were appointed at a meeting this week of the Red Hook Central School District Board of Education.

They are Miss Mary Ruethling, Kingston, elementary teacher; Miss Laura Taff, Westfield, N. J., junior high school mathematics; Miss Carol Pokigo, high school mathematics and Barnabas Quigley, secondary science.

Both Miss Pokigo and Mr. Quigley are New Hampshire residents.

Also on the board's agenda was the continuation of preliminary discussions for a proposed new elementary school.

Area Boy Scouts Leave for Stay in New Mexico

Philmont Scout Ranch in New Mexico is the destination of Explorers, older Boy Scouts, and adult leaders who left Rhinecliff Tuesday for a 12-day rugged camping experience.

The Philmont Ranch, celebrates its 27th anniversary this year, according to Herbert Greenwald, chairman of the Philmont Committee of the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America. It is a national camping area for the Scout movement and comprises 137,000 acres of rugged western country on the slopes of the Sangre de Cristo Range of the great Rocky Mountain chain.

Heads Contingent

George William Poythress of 2 Hemlock Court, Saugerties, a neighborhood commissioner, is leader of the contingent. He is a veteran of many years in scouting.

Assisting him are Kurt Stadel, scoutmaster of Troop 32, Saugerties, who resides at 32 Lafayette Street in that community. John Helmer of Tillson, who serves as scoutmaster of Troop 17, is also an assistant leader. Other members of the contingent are William Kearney and Vincent Coda of Troop 3, Kingston; Bruce Safford and Howard Kramer of Troop 6, Kingston; David Quick of Troop 10, Kingston; Michael Lipp and James Carver of Troop 20, Hurley; David Roddy and Wayne DeBrosky of Troop 17, Rosendale; George Gillette, Peter Benson, Thomas Benson, Edwin Hoar Jr., and Ronald Krom of Troop 28, Ellenville; Howard Haines of Troop 29, Ellenville; Allen Pomerantz of Troop 24, Kerhonkson; Martin Lovinger of Troop 22, Kerhonkson; Carl Segelken and Michael Hereth of Troop 60 in Phoenicia; Marc Hennehan of Troop 66 in West Hurley; Stephen Dollard and Sherman Wood of Troop 45, Coxsack; Steven McNeany, David Pelham and Robert Pelham of Troop 141, Catskill; Roy Olsen of Troop 63, Shokan.

Also, Edmund Dapp and Richard Stoorza of Post 70, Highland; Charles Rowell Jr., of Troop 31, Saugerties; Wayne DuBois of Troop 172, New Paltz. The Philmont Scout Ranch was the gift of Waite Phillips in 1938 and 1941. The grant included land, a residence, ranch buildings, livestock and operating ranch equipment. To help develop and maintain the ranch, he also presented to the Boy Scouts of America as an endowment the Philtower Building, a 23-story modern office building in Tulsa, Okla.

Rich in Wildlife

Philmont Ranch is rich in wild game, according to Poythress. It has deer, elk, coyote, antelope, mountain lion, buffalo, wild turkey and bear. Its hills and canyons teem with wildlife. Its flashing streams abound with game fish. There is a wilderness of trees, flowers, grasses, and the timeless record of the rocks is a lesson in geology.

This summer about 17,000 Explorers and older Boy Scouts will test their camping skills on a 12-day expedition. They will camp out on the trail, carrying their own equipment and cooking their own food. Horseback riding, burro packing, and wilderness survival are combined into these expeditions.

Explorers from all parts of the nation participate in pioneering, mountain climbing, fishing, horseback riding, geological explorations, field sports, and many other activities.

The tour of the local group will also include extended sightseeing in Chicago, Denver, Colorado Springs and Pikes Peak. They are expected to return on August 27.

Brandt Faces Crisis Of Career in Next Month's Election

By CARL HARTMAN
BONN, Germany (AP) — Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin faces the crisis of his career in next month's West German election.

If things break right for him, he will find himself the leader of his country, the world's third greatest industrial power. He would be Germany's first Socialist chancellor in 35 years.

If he fails to get in, it will be for the second time and his party may well start looking for a new leader.

A million or so votes on Sept. 19 will make all the difference. Brandt, who formally opens his campaign Saturday, is a rugged, good-looking, broad-shouldered, a charmer in three languages.

Behind him stand a beautiful wife, an anti-Nazi record and a strong, well-disciplined party. He would seem to have everything a candidate needs, but some of the assets may turn out to be illusory.

Looks, personality and family life appears to carry less weight in Germany. Many German voters are more impressed by the patriarchal figure of ex-Chancellor Konrad Adenauer or the professional manner of Chancellor Ludwig Erhard.

Went to Norway

Brandt's dangerous work in the anti-Nazi underground does not figure largely in his party's campaign. His enemies like to recall that he emigrated to Norway, married there, returned after the war in Norwegian uniform and only resumed his German citizenship in 1947.

A West Berlin taxi driver once put it this way: "Would you people in America vote for somebody who fought on the Japanese side?"

Brandt denies ever having fought in the Norwegian army.

Brandt's Socialist party still is suspect to many West Germans. True, Karl Marx himself considered it heretical. True, it has given up nationalization of industry, anti-militarism, anti-Semitism. True, Brandt is as staunch an anti-Communist as only a West Berliner can be. Yet the image of the whiskered, bomb-throwing Bolshevik persists with many older voters.

Prosperous Condition

Brandt lacks a good issue. West Germany is so prosperous that almost everything the Socialists propose sounds like "Me, too." In foreign policy, also, there is little difference between the major parties.

On the other hand, Brandt and his party have a great attraction for millions of young voters. The Socialists have been doing well in local elections and in polls. Enthusiastic party workers are applying the techniques of the late President John F. Kennedy's and President Johnson's campaigns with Germanic thoroughness. They work not only for Brandt but for the whole of what they call the "government team."

There is little expectation that they can win a clear majority in the Bundestag, but Brandt says it is within the party's grasp to become the biggest in Germany.

To do that it will have to overcome the considerable lead of Erhard's Christian Democrats. The Christian Democrats polled 45.3 per cent of the vote in the 1961 election. The Socialists only 36.2 per cent. The Socialists are expected to gain but the Christian Democrats may gain too, at the expense of minor parties.

Under West Germany's system of proportional representation, the number of seats that a party wins in the Bundestag conforms closely to its percentage of the popular vote. The party with the largest number of seats will have a strong claim on the chancellor's job.

Poor Man's Ginza Gives 35th a Place to Relax

By GEORGE ESPER

CAM RANH BAY, South Viet Nam (AP) — Right out in the middle of all this hot, sandy beach land, the sign stood out.

"Here we sell ice."

A few doors down, there was another: "Kim Tan's Tavern and Laundry."

Small huts that housed the taverns, laundry shops and ice shops stood on a sandy road leading into the encampment area of the U.S. Army 35th Engineer Group.

It was like a shopping center in the middle of the desert.

Capt. Lindbergh Jones, 37, of Leesville, La., adjutant of the unit, called it the North Ginza—with tongue-in-cheek, of course.

There was a south Ginza, too, on another side of the encampment area. You had your pick.

What they amounted to was a poor man's version of the main shopping district of downtown Tokyo known as the Ginza.

They gave 1,400 troops a place to relax, have a beer or a soft drink, a snack, or buy a souvenir.

The North Ginza is the smaller of the two. It is operated by wives and dependents of the noncommissioned officers of the Vietnamese junk forces training center. The officers and their wives stay in the same area as the 35th Engineer Group. Some of the old buildings of the junk forces' center have been taken over by the Engineer Group.

The center trains men to operate small boats with mail and auxiliary engines for patrolling.

Fishing Families Operate

The South Ginza, extending out to the bay, is operated by fishing families.

"They no longer are fishermen for the most part," said Jones. "The movement of U.S.

troops into the area has boosted their economy."

The beautiful bay and beach provide the troops a natural recreation area.

Jones was greeted warmly as he walked through the village. A teenage girl said: "You No. 1." In Vietnamese, if you are No. 1, you are tops.

Jones pointed out Vietnamese constructing new building, inspired by the U.S. supply build-up in the area.

The port of Cam Ranh Bay is the fourth best natural harbor in the world, Jones said.

"One of the biggest things in history, I predict, is that 15 years from now, it will become one of the major ports of Southeast Asia because of the Army development."

"Our mission is to develop the peninsula into a major logistics base and troop cantonment area."

An advance party of the nine men of the Engineer Group arrived May 2 from Ft. Polk, La. The others landed June 9. The Engineers now are living in tents on stone pads.

Troops from the U.S. Army 101st Airborne Division and the U.S. Army 1st Infantry Division are based in the Cam Ranh Bay area. They provide security for the Engineer Group.

The commander of the 35th is Col. William F. Hart Jr., 47, a native of New York City, and a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

His oldest daughter, Leslie, is a student at the University of Pittsburgh. Mrs. Hart, another daughter, Cecilia, and twin sons, William F. III and James, are living in Miami, Fla.

The colonel, who also carries the title of commanding officer of the Cam Ranh Bay logistics area, said he wouldn't have missed the logistics buildup "for all the tea in China."

G-G's Dukes Rout Johnny's Shell, 17-1, For Softball Title

Woods Retires First 18 Men; Hurls 1-Hitter

John Woods of G-G's Dukes retired the first 18 men he faced, permitted only one hit, in pacing his team to the 1965 City Softball League championship with a 17-1 rout of Johnny's Shell Station.

Softball observers said the Woods performance probably was an all-time city record but verification was not available.

Stan Tentowski broke Woods' spell with a leadoff single in the seventh and was the only player to reach base for Johnny's. Woods didn't walk a man and struck out seven.

Woods' superb performance was, incidentally, his second straight 1-hitter.

The G-G's wrapped up the regular season championship with a record of 18 wins and three defeats. The G-G victory also wrecked Armstrong's hopes for a tie in the final standings. The Armstrong's placed second with a 16-4 record.

Collect 11 Hits

Tom Fiore stroked a home run, double and single to pace the Dukes' 11-hit assault on Al Milak and Red Amato. Milak was the loser, as the Dukes scored in every inning.

Vince Smedes stroked three singles and Bob Short had a pair. Red Amato and Terry Corkery hit doubles.

2-Day Motorboat Regatta Planned September 18-19

A two-day motorboat regatta will be held Sept. 18 and 19 through the efforts of John L. Mazzuca, state director of Kingston Jaycees and Harvey Chick Miller of the Lazy Bones Boat Basin, Eddyville.

The event will be held with the cooperation of Hidden Harbor Yacht Club of Port Ewen. The New York State Pleasure Boat Championship will be decided at the event.

Many local, state and out-of-state competitors will attend. Many will come from as far south as South Carolina and Kentucky and as far west as Chicago.

German Heavy Terrell's Next

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — The manager of heavy-weight Karl Mildeberger said Thursday he expects an agreement will be reached shortly on a title fight between the German and World Boxing Association champion Ernie Terrell of Chicago.

Manager Joachim Goettert said he was waiting for a cable from Bill Miller, his New York agent, before making any flight plans to New York to complete the arrangements.

"Talks on this fight have been going on ever since Mildeberger and I were in Chicago last March to watch Terrell fight Eddie Machen," he said.

"These talks have now reached their final stage. I am optimistic that an agreement will be reached soon."

No Strike Zone Hurts Kralick

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
What Jack Kralick needs most of all is two more strike zones.

The Cleveland right-hander was doing pretty well with the standard one that's located at home plate Thursday night. But when he started aiming at first base and third base, he ran into trouble.

Kralick had limited Los Angeles to six hits and was locked in a 1-1 tie going into the ninth inning. Jim Fregosi opened the inning with a walk.

When Vic Power bunted, Kralick fielded the ball and fired to first base. Only without that strike zone to aim for, Kralick's throw sailed into right field and Fregosi wound up at third and Power at second.

Lou Clinton was purposely walked, loading the bases but Bobby Knoop kayaked the strategy with a two-run single that broke the tie.

No Strike Zone

Bob Rodgers attempted to sacrifice and again Kralick grabbed the ball. This time he tried for the force at third, but there's no strike zone there either. The ball sailed into left field as Clinton and Knoop dashed home with two more runs.

Angel reliever Bob Lee, who bailed Fred Newman out of a seventh inning jam, made the four runs stand up for his seventh victory of the year. He has lost six.

Elsewhere in the American League, Minnesota whacked New York 8-3, Baltimore downed Boston 5-2 and Detroit battered Kansas City 11-1.

Retires 14 in Row

Newman retired the first 14 batters he faced but Larry Brown's single in the sixth broke the spell. The Indians knocked him out in the next inning with singles by Leon Wagner, Rocky Colavito and Max Alvis producing the run.

The Angels clipped Kralick for a third inning run on singles by Paul Schall and Newman and Jose Cardenal's sacrifice fly.

Minnesota tagged four Yankee pitchers for 14 hits and rookie Jim Merritt coasted to his second victory. Richie Rollins and Zolo Versalles had three hits apiece and Don Mincher hit a two-run homer for the Twins.

Hector Lopez and Cleto Boyer homered for New York.

Baltimore came from behind with four runs in the seventh inning to beat Boston. John Orsino's pinch single, good for two runs, was the key blow for the Orioles.

Brandt Homers

Jackie Brandt homered for Baltimore and Frank Malone, who drove in all the Red Sox' runs, connected for Boston.

Don Demeter drove in seven runs, four of them on a grand slam homer, and Hank Aguirre pitched a four-hitter for Detroit's victory. Demeter also had a single and a triple as the Tigers pounded three Athletics pitchers for 11 hits. Bill Freehan also homered for the Tigers.

The victory was the first since July 11 for Aguirre, who had failed in five previous attempts to win his 11th game. One of the four hits off him was Rene Lachemann's eighth home run of the season.

After its first flowering, the clove tree may continue to bloom for 100 years or more.

Penalty Costs Palmer 2 Shots

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — Tommy Aaron led the field as today's second round of the Professional Golfers' Association Championship in these western Pennsylvania highlands held a distinct Dixie flavor.

But even with the drawing Georgian and fellow Southerners Mason Rudolph, Gardner Dickinson, Sam Snead and Ray Floyd spearheading the invasion, a large measure of attention focused on the controversial mishap that stunned the ill-starred idol of Laurel Valley, Arnold Palmer.

The 28-year-old Aaron scrambled over the Laurel Valley Club's rolling 7,090 yards in 66 Thursday, a five-under-par opening round that consisted of eight birdies, three bogeys and only seven pars.

Rudolph, the steady-shooting Tennessean, and Dickinson, rapier-thin Alabamian who is a protégé of legendary Ben Hogan, stormed in among the late finishers one stroke off the pace at 67.

Snead Posts 68

Right behind at 68 stood Snead, 54-year-old Virginian who has won three PGA titles. Snead, a member of a golfing family from North Carolina, and Bruce Devlin of Australia, only non-Dixie member of the pacesetter contingent.

Solidly favored Jack Nicklaus recovered from an over-par front nine and fired into good position with a 37-31-69.

Meanwhile, Palmer's promising chance at a fine round was shot down by a belated ruling that cost the slumping Pennsylvania strongboy a two-stroke penalty. His second shot on the first hole wound up near a bridge, and a railing prevented follow-through of his swing. He called for an official ruling, but before it came two marshals tore off the railing and Palmer played on.

After a par on one, a Birdie on No. 2, and three more pars Palmer was notified on the sixth tee of the penalty. He finished the day one over at 72.

Fog Delays Start

A heavy morning fog delayed the first tee-offs for two hours, and forced the starting field of 167 to split — half beginning on the first hole and the others on No. 10. But a bright sun then warmed the course and the pros did much better with par than expected. Twelve bettered it, six more matched it.

Defending PGA champion Bobby Nichols and U.S. Open champion Gary Player both were well back at 74.

The field will be cut to the low 70 and ties after today's round, with the survivors eligible for the concluding 18-hole tests Saturday and Sunday.

Willie's Adios Feature Winner At Monticello

MONTICELLO — The featured fourth race at Monticello Raceway Thursday night was won by Willie's Adios in 2:04.4. Driver Dave Pickney was in the seat behind the winner to rein him to a neck triumph in taking the major share of the $2,500 Invitational Purse.

Pickney took the seven-year-old son of Greentree Adios—Miss Beretta Perkins away in front but gave way to Nevele Slopoke, Jim Grundy up as the field shot down the backstretch for the first time. Grundy then eased Nevele Slopoke to the half in 1:03.2 after a :30.4 opening quarter.

The order remained the same by the third station in 1:34 but Pickney moved his Canadian ace up closer to the pace-setter. Around the final bend, Pickney came out with the Eric and Harry Wheby owned flash and collared Nevele Surprise. Only in the last few strides was Willie's Adios able to get up for the decision.

Camper in Show
Avonian, Bobby Camper driving raced third all the way and managed to salvage the show spot over First Dark and Bayard the other two starters in the small but select field.

In winning his third race of the year, Willie's Adios paid $460, 3.00 and 2.20 across the board.

The 4 and 3 Daily Double paid $275, when Ralph Arone won the first with Bert Reynolds and then Vince Ferrero took the second behind Shell Bomb.

The Twin Double at the Mighty M paid $2,201.80. Winning combination was 1-8-2-3. The Perfecta returned $92.60.

State Tourney Scheduled Here

A field of between 400 and 500 golfers is expected in Kingston for the 1965 New York State Masonic Golf Association championships the weekend of Sept. 10-12 at Wiltwyck Country Club.

The local committee headed by chairman James E. Norton today announced details. The tournament proper will be held at Wiltwyck, with the women's division playing at the Rip Van Winkle Club in Palenville.

The tournament dinner dance will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

"We hope to have our host Kingston lodges give the state golf association the best event they've ever had," said chairman Norton following a committee meeting. "The arrival of this number of golfers, many with their families for several days in Kingston can be a real boost to the community," he added. "Our local volunteers are working hard to make the tournament a big success."

Entries to Dr. Holcomb

Dr. Fred Holcomb Jr., golf chairman at Wiltwyck, is registering entries and will set up the pairings.

Dr. Holcomb said he had already received entries from 225 men and 68 women, with an increasing flow of entries as the Aug. 23 deadline approaches. "I hope the local Masonic golfers realize they must file entry blanks to get into the tournament," he said. "So far I have not received any local entries at all and there is only a 10-day period left. Blanks are available from the Wiltwyck pro shop, or from Jim Norton, and at the lodges."

Dad's Rooting Helps Harmon

(AP)—There's nothing like having your dad rooting for you from the sidelines as 14-year-old Billy Harmon of New Rochelle demonstrated in winning the New York State boys golf championships Thursday.
Billy, son of the famed por-Claude Harmon, was one down to Jim Evanoff, Syracuse, after seven holes of their 18-hole match play final when Claude arrived to watch the action at the Briar Hall Country Club.
Billy promptly won the eighth, ninth and 10th holes to take a commanding lead as he went on to win, 4 and 3. He closed out the match with flourish on the 15th with a birdie.
Nick Raasch, 16-year-old junior at DeWitt High School in Jamestown, a suburb of Syracuse, similarly rallied to win the State junior championship by defeating Paul McMahon of Binghamton, 2-up, in their 18-hole final.

Wellington Fans 14 at Stadium; Costello Excels

The California Bombers five-man softball team collected only three hits off Billy Costello and Bud Lasher but they managed to beat the City Softball League
All Stars, 3 to 1, in the exhibition game Thursday night at Dietz Stadium.

The highly touted Bombers' pitcher—Showboat Wellington—
out 14.

It didn't match his game average of 18 strikeouts. He didn't hit a home run—got a single in five trips and, of course, didn't pitch a shutout.

It was nevertheless quite a performance for an athlete who had just pitched seven innings in Poughkeepsie, jumped into a car and raced to Kingston, where the game got under way 35 minutes past the 8:15 p. m. scheduled starting time.

All eyes were on Showboat and he made the most of it. He relied strictly on a fast ball and a running line of chatter that both amused and irritated the local batsmen. Showboat also proved a fair country "umpire" and was easily in the class of Eddie Feigner.

As for Costello, he was a fair pitcher himself for five innings.
While vital to the end result, the scoring seemed secondary to Wellington's antics. He's a giant sized pitcher of class, skill and a master showman.

For Kingston it all happened in the first inning when Vince
Smedes drew a walk, Ronnie Cole fanned and Charlie Williams stroked a single through the middle of the Bombers' two-man "infield." The All Stars posed a couple other mild threats but no runs.

Bombers went ahead 2-1 in the first on a walk to Stan String-ham, Art Penfield's single, a bad stray that way until the fifth when Wellington was safe on a fielder's choice and scored later on Lenny Williams' single.

Diamond Dust:
The Bombers stressed excellence rather than humor in contrast to King and His Court.
"This is a competitive team," said Al DeSantis, Schenectady sports editor who handles the Bombers.

Billy Costello's pitching stint was strictly first rate. . . Hobie Armstrong dashed into the corner behind the third base bleachers for a breathtaking catch in the fifth.
The old Kingston High-Harvard football speedster can still fly.
Showboat called in his "outfield" (one player) in the sixth without damage. . . Some of the Kingston players appeared somewhat casual in their dress. . .
The crowd was good but not that good.

Saratoga Hurdle To Natty Bumpo
SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y.
(AP)—A strong field of eight 3-year-olds was entered for today's Jim Dandy feature race at Saratoga Race Track.

The one-mile-long Jim Dandy is considered a preview for next week's Mid-Summer Derby.
Calment Farm's Reverse, with Walter Blum up, and Con-ish Prince, to be ridden by Ron Turcotte, are ruled favorites.

In Thursday's feature, Natty Bumpo came from behind to win the Saratoga National Hurdles by 10 lengths and set a record of 3:41 4-5 for the 2 1-16 mile test over 11 jumps. He paid $4.80.

Wise Ship was second and Pis-

$22,622 Average At Saratoga Sale
SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y.
(AP)—Buyers broke all price records Thursday night on the third day of the annual yearling sales here, with two fillies going for $110,000 and $125,000.

A total of 60 horses were sold for a record one-night sales mark of $1,357,300. The average sale was $22,622, more than $2, 000 higher than last year's record.

Raymond Guest, represented by A. B. Hancock, paid $125,000 for a bay filly by Tom Fool from Levee.

The price is the highest ever paid at Saratoga and is second only to the $140,000 paid at

Mrs. G. Overbagh Wins on 66 Net

Mrs. Gerald Overbagh posted a 9-under women's par net 66 to win first place in the Wiltwyck Country Club women's "replayed shot" tournament. She grossed 47-40-87 (low for the day) and had 21 strokes allowance.

Tied for runnerup honors with net 71's were Mrs. Joseph Brady and Mrs. Robert Merritt. Mrs.
Brady shot 97-26 and Mrs. Merritt had 43-45-88, second low gross, and 17 handicap.

Other scores were:
Miss Agnes Kennedy, 93-21-72;
Mrs. Charles J. Turk, 101-28-
72; Mrs. Robert H. Daley, 94-21-
73; Mrs. Lloyd LeFever, 101-28-

Beman Opens Defense In Porter Cup Play

LEWISTON, N.Y. (AP) —
Dean Beman of Bethesda, Md., begins today a title defense in the 72-hole, medal play seventh annual Porter Cup Invitational Golf Tournament here.

Beman, the 1963 National Amateur champion, was the lowest scoring amateur golfer in the 1965 National Open. He finished eighth behind Open champion Gary Player.

Beman won the Porter Cup last year on the par-70, 6,348-yard Niagara Falls Country Club.

And the man who gave him a tough time last year, Jimmy Grant, of Houston University, is back for this tournament. Beman beat Grant in 1964 by one stroke.

Dr. Fletcher Tops Eastern "C" Play

Dr. Murray Fletcher of Wiltwyck Country Club fired 83 low gross in the Class C division of the weekly Eastern New York Golf Association tournament at the Edison Club in Schenectady.

Dr. Fletcher's 16 handicap gave him 67 net which also tied for first.

Pat Cioffi, a 6 handicapper from Mechanicville, led the bulky field of 156 players with a three under par 34-35-69.

The "B" gross leader was Barrie Byrne, a 35-year old Bennington, Vt. high school teacher and basketball coach, who registered a 73.

Dear Abby . . .
Get The Minutes!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor who I thought was very devoted to her husband. I also thought I had a husband who was very devoted to me. This neighbor's husband has a job that keeps him away from home a good bit of the time. The other night, while looking for my children, I saw something that left me speechless! I hadn't meant deliberately to look into anyone's window, but this neighbor lady never draws her blinds. My husband was supposed to be having a meeting with his boss that night. Well, he was having a "meeting" all right, but his "boss" was nowhere in sight.

My problem: How should this be handled? Should I tell my neighbor what I know? Or should I wait until her husband comes back and tell HIM? Should I tell my husband first? Please answer this in your column as my husband opens all the mail. But DO NOT mention the name of the city.

GOT A SECRET

DEAR GOT: You've got more than a "secret"—you've got a secret weapon. The facts? Tell your husband what you saw. Truth is stranger than fiction, but give him a chance to explain anyway.

DEAR ABBY: This may stump you, but I sure hope not because I ever need an answer! I am 24 and the mother of two small boys. I love my husband and children very much, although I have a very poor way of showing it, which brings me to my problem. I am a lousy housekeeper.

For four years I have tried to buckle down and run an efficient household, but I have failed. And I hate myself for it. I can't offer any excuses. I am just plain lazy. My house is always a mess and I don't know where to begin. If you have any suggestions on how I can improve, please rush them to me. My husband complains constantly about my untidiness and I can't blame him. I want so desperately to be the efficient housekeeper and well-groomed wife my husband deserves.

LAZY, ASHAMED, AND DESPERATE
DEAD L. A. AND D.: The longest march in the world begins with one step. Start with one room at a time. The secret of good housekeeping is "A place for everything and everything in its place." Don't clutter your house with things that are useless. If something is broken, repair it, give it away, or throw it out. Don't set something down for "just a moment." PUT IT WHERE IT BELONGS. Set up a work schedule for washing, ironing, thorough kitchen cleaning, bedrooms and living area. Plan your work and work your plan. Most important, DON'T WASTE TIME. The organized housekeeper doesn't gab on the phone, coffee klatch with the neighbors or watch TV until her work is done. And the hour before your husband comes home, freshen up, look pretty and humor the kids—so you and home will be nice to come home to.

DEAR ABBY: When I was a little girl I used to blush a lot. Blushing has always embarrassed me terribly because I am naturally very fair and when I blush my face looks like a sunset. But I outgrew it for the most part. Now suddenly at age 33 I have started to blush again. But this time it's more than just blushing, it's as though waves of intense heat come over me and I get wringing wet. This seems to happen for no reason at all. It's gotten so that I hate to go anywhere for fear I'll blush. I get panicky just worrying about it. A friend said I was probably having "hot flashes," but it can't be that because I'm too young. I know I can't stop blushing, but how can I get over this awful fear that I might?

BLUSHING

DEAR BLUSHING: Go to your doctor for a thorough check-up and describe your symptoms. The friend who suggested that you could be having a "hot flash" could have been giving you a "hot tip."

Fair Trip Set For Church Camp Group Tuesday

As the Catholic Day Camp enters its last week of the sixth successful season, several special events have been added to the agenda.

The first 40 boys who have registered for this last week will be eligible to take an excursion Tuesday which includes a trip to the New York World's Fair, sleepover at St. Peter and Paul's Camp in Mt. Vernon, and a swim at Rye Beach.

The buses will depart from camp at 10 a. m. after the routine pick-up of the campers have been made earlier. The buses will return to camp Tuesday in time for the children to get their regular bus home. Those who are interested are to contact John Smith, camp director, at their earliest convenience.

On Wednesday there will be a cook-out for all the campers followed by a water carnival in the afternoon. On the last day will be the awards assembly whereby the "Campers of the Year" will be announced. The season will conclude with a party in the afternoon.

Four of Johann Bach's sons became famous as musicians and composers.

Gal Publisher Is Hollywood Power

By DORIS KLEIN

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Her name is Tichi and she's a power in Hollywood. But you'd never know it by looking at her. Slim, brunette, beautiful Tichi Wilkerson appears more fragile than most of the movie stars she encounters, and she wields her power with a delicate air.

She publishes the Hollywood Reporter, one of the town's two daily newspapers.

Stars Check Journals
While many such journals are dull recitals of the nuts and bolts of an industry, Hollywood's pair are lively "must" reading in the movie industry.

Movie stars check the Reporter and its rival, Daily Variety, for news of upcoming films — and phone their agents to go after a leading role. Producers scan them for box office grosses.

To appear in the know, the uninformed or the uninvited quote tidbits from Reporter columnist Mike Connolly.

"I suppose we're an influence," says Tichi, curled on a comfortable leather couch in her paneled, fireplace-equipped office. "But it's more because of the enormous volume of news there is to print. There's so much happening all the time."

Tichi inherited the paper in 1962 from her husband, Billy Wilkerson, Hollywood bon vivant and restaurateur, who founded it in 1930.

"He suffered from emphysema for several years and knew his time was limited," says Tichi. "So he brought me into the business, taught it to me from the ground up."

Still in her early 30s Tichi also found herself left with the responsibilities of a little boy and girl and a French colonial mansion in Bel-Air.

"There weren't all the pressures you'd expect," said Tichi. "Everyone in the industry tried to help me."

Tichi started quickly to inject her own ideas. Wilkerson had avoided printing much news of the television industry.

Realized TV Importance
"But I could see how important television was and would become," she says. "Now we devote almost half the Reporter to television."

Tichi streamlined business operations and hired correspondents in Europe, Asia, New York, Las Vegas and San Francisco. Circulation increased 10 per cent in the first six months of her regime.

"I love motion pictures," she admits. "And I love my job. I've had a lot of offers to sell, but then what would I do?"

Tichi spends the morning conferring with the editor and business department officials in the Reporter's Sunset Boulevard building.

"Then I start to make the rounds of the studios," she says. "I don't tell the people I talk to that I'm doing a story on them."

If I decided it wasn't worth one, they might get insulted."

She devotes considerable time to charities and spends her evenings going to the movies or on the endless round of the Hollywood social circuit.

"It's still one of the best places to pick up stories," she says.

This year, she toured the European film festivals, sending dispatches to the Reporter. Her conclusion: "There are too many of them."

In one important respect, she differs from many publishers. "I always have the editor edit my copy," she says. "I respect his judgment, or I wouldn't have him."

A WISE OLD OWL

Told us of the happy family that lived in this 8 yr old Hurley ranch home and the cook-outs they enjoyed in their oversized backyard. Plenty of room for everyone in the picturesque living room with view, dinette, large eat-in kitchen, 3 bedrooms, finished basement playroom & garage. The lovely sundeck for reclining, h.w. heat, and low taxes add little more to this value packed prop-

Did you ever watch oranges being sorted in a packing plant? They are dumped into a conveyor, and carried along over a series of holes. Gradually each orange finds its particular size hole and disappears from the picture. Only a few of abnormal size reach the end. It's like that with men. They go bumping along through life on the great conveyor called Time. One by one they are dropped into grooves, and only a few reach the big goal. But a man has this advantage over an orange: he doesn't have to remain in the groove into which he has been dropped unless he wishes to. By the exercise of his brain, his grit, and his determination, he can so increase his girth that he is caught up again by the conveyor, and deposited into a hole better fitting his new size.

Thus a man sets his own limitations. He doesn't have to stay put. And he alone is to blame if he is permanently dumped from the conveyor before he reaches his goal.

Emily — Who is your family doctor?
Sarah — I can't tell you.
Emily — Why not? Don't you know his name?
Sarah — Yes. Dr. Smith used to be our family doctor but nowadays mother goes to an eye specialist; father to a stomach specialist; my sister goes to a throat specialist; my brother is in the care of a lung specialist and I'm taking treatments from an osteopath.

Massena Gets Two-Inch Rain

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There were showers in scattered areas but clear to partly cloudy and warm weather prevailed in the major part of the nation today.

Thundershowers dampened areas in the Gulf states, the western mountains and the northern Appalachians. Earlier heavy rain soaked parts of Upstate New York and northern Vermont. Nearly two inches of rain doused Massena, N.Y., in a six-hour period. About one inch fell at Burlington, Vt.

A midsummer heat wave continued in the Midwest. Temperatures soared above 100 degrees Thursday as far north as Montana and the Dakotas and readings of 80 were reported early today in many areas.

Hot and humid weather was the outlook for most of the nation east of the Rockies and cooler from the Great Basin across Montana and the Pacific Northwest. Early morning temperatures ranged from 48 at Baker, Ore., to 97 at Blythe, Calif.

Only Dem Ticket That Can Defeat Lindsay: O'Dwyer

NEW YORK (AP) — City Councilman Paul O'Dwyer says he is "extremely concerned" that the rank-and-file of the reform Democratic movement "are being driven into the waiting arms" of Rep. John V. Lindsay, Republican and Liberal Party designee for mayor.

O'Dwyer, one of the four major candidates for the Democratic nomination for mayor and a member of the party's reform wing, also said Thursday that he and his running mates are "the only ticket with widespread appeal" and "the only Democratic ticket that can beat Lindsay."

The executive committee of the New York County—Manhattan — Republican organization unanimously endorsed Mrs. Constance Baker Motley, a Democrat, for election as Manhattan borough president. Mrs. Motley, a Harlem Negro, is now serving in the office.

Rabbi Shulem Rubin, spiritual leader of an orthodox congregation, entered the contest for a state Senate seat in the Bronx. Rabbi Rubin will oppose a member of his own congregation, incumbent Sen. Abraham Bernstein.

A meeting of the 2,500-member Lexington Democratic Club, the oldest and largest club in the reform movement, voted 184 to 135 Wednesday night to endorse Scervane over Rep. William F. Ryan, a reform Democrat who also seeks the mayoral nomination.

Ryan, who has received the endorsement of club delegates to the committee for Democratic voters, contends he is the only reform candidate in the Democratic mayoral primary race.

The Lexington Democratic club endorsement raised to 14 the number of reform clubs that have backed Scervane, compared with 20 for Ryan. Five clubs are uncommitted.

Wheat Crop Sets Pennsylvania Record

HARRISBURG (AP) — This year's wheat crop in the state has set a new yield record of 32.5 bushels per acre, according to the State Crop Reporting Service.

The yield was 1.5 bushels above the previous high set last year and 3.6 bushels more than the 1959-63 average, the reporting service noted Thursday.

Total production at Aug. 1 was estimated at 1.8 million bushels, about 7 per cent less than last year. The decline resulted from a heavy cutback in planting during the drought last fall.

The state's rye crop also set a yield record of 27 bushels per acre, two bushels more than a year ago. Production totaled 486,000 bushels, the highest since 1958.

Probe Wife's Death

ITHACA, N. Y. (AP) — Police continued their investigation today of the gunshot death of the wife of a Cornell University professor.

Robert F. Presthus told police in suburban Cayuga Heights that he found his wife, Anita, 45, dead in a bedroom of their home Thursday.

Presthus said he found a .22 caliber rifle at his wife's side. Presthus, who joined Cornell's faculty in 1956, is a professor of administration in the graduate school of business and public administration.

Future Looks Rosy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Candice Bergen, daughter of ventriloquist Edgar Bergen, eventually could receive up to $75,000 for one motion picture under a contract approved by a court Thursday.

Miss Bergen will make one picture a year for Columbia Pictures Corp., starting at $12,500, and, if all options are picked up, work her way up to $75,000 for the last film.

Thirty per cent of the earnings will go into savings bonds at the request of Miss Bergen, a junior at the University of Pennsylvania.

HALF OF GOAL PLEDGED—All eyes are on the $200,000 mark, half of which was pledged during a dinner meeting this week for the new Congregation Ahavath Israel synagogue, religious school and social hall. Sixty-four members of the synagogue pledged the $100,000 at the dinner held in the Vestry Hall of the present synagogue. Among those present were (l-r) Carl Lipton, co-chairman of the fund drive; Rabbi Harry Z. Schechtman, Ephraim Propp, president of the congregation; Mrs. Seymour Semilof, president of the Sisterhood and Herman G. Rafalowsky, chairman of the building fund drive.

Snake Bite May Cost Boy His Lower Right Leg

BATH, N. Y. (AP) — A rattlesnake bite on the ankle may cost an 11-year-old boy his lower right leg, say doctors at Ira Davenport Hospital here.

The physicians continued efforts today to save the lower leg of Richard Loucks Jr. He was reported in serious condition. The leg is swollen from the snake bite inflicted Aug. 2 while he was walking in high grass to his home in Cameron Mills, 12 miles northwest of Corning.

The boy was taken to the hospital, treated and sent home. But his family returned him to the hospital the same day when his condition worsened.

Walter Young, of Corning, a herpetologist, says he examined the snake bite and said there were fang marks one inch apart on the ankle. This indicated the boy was bitten by a large snake, he said.

Young says rattlesnakes are not uncommon in the area, but usually are found only in unpopulated areas. He said reports of the snakes biting persons were rare.

Charge Shells Kill Five

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—An Israeli army spokesman claimed Syrian guns killed three Arab girls, an Arab woman and an Israeli soldier during a three-hour tank and artillery duel across the Syrian-Israeli border Thursday.

A spokesman in Damascus countered with claims that Syria inflicted "heavy losses" on Israeli positions and set a tank on fire. He said four Syrian soldiers and two civilians were wounded.

Each side accused the other of starting the firing, which did not stop until U.N. truce supervisors issued three cease-fire appeals.

Turk Leaves Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Turkish Premier Suat Hayri Urganulu left today for a tour after days of red carpet treatment by Soviet authorities.

He has been told by Soviet leaders that they have no designs on Turkey other than friendship and peaceful coexistence.

The Turkish premier will visit Kiev first, then leave for the Black Sea for a three-day tour and rest. He is to return to Ankara Tuesday.

Gets Confidence Vote

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Lebanese parliament approved the government of Premier Rashid Karami Thursday night in a vote of confidence.

Karami formed the government July 26 after the resignation of Premier Hussein Oweini and his Cabinet.

Kripplebush

KRIPPLEBUSH — The Ladies Auxiliary of the Kripplebush-Lyonville Fire Company will hold a social Wednesday 7:30 p. m. in the Kripplebush firehall. The public may attend.

The annual Labor Day picnic supper will be held at the JOUAM Hall.

Nancy, Judy and Joy Haener of Ellenville are spending a few days vacation at the Christiana and Miller homes.

A number of Thimble Club members attended the covered dish luncheon at the home of Mrs. Uriah Conner Tuesday noon. The September meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Claude Christiana.

Get Birth Pill Grant

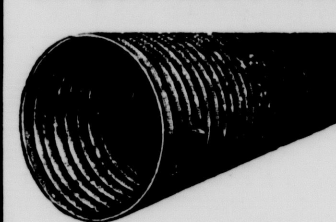

MANCHESTER, England — (AP) — Two scientists at Manchester University have been granted $140,000 for basic research toward development of a birth control pill for men.

The Welcome Trust and the Ford Foundation allotted the funds to Prof. Harold Schindler and Dr. Harold Jackson.

Schindler said that some of the alkylating drugs used to inhibit cancers caused temporary sterility in males.

He said work on male animals has shown the drugs impeded the production of sperm for a temporary period. Why this happens is not known.

Report Sinatra Leaves Yacht to Visit Parents

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Sinatra's salt water odyssey appeared at an end today, leaving unanswered where he would take his romance with teen-aged television star Mia Farrow.

The singer and Miss Farrow left his chartered yacht Thursday apparently for opposite shores of the Hudson River.

Sinatra, 49, reportedly took a launch from the Southern Breeze and headed for New Jersey. It was speculated he was going to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Sinatra, who live at Fort Lee, N.J.

Miss Farrow, 19, came to Manhattan, where she met her mother, actress Maureen O'Sullivan, and her sister, Tisa, 14.

With its passengers scattered ashore, the Southern Breeze slipped down the Hudson Thursday night to the East River and returned to her berth at the World's Fair Marina.

The cruise had started as a meandering pleasure trip along the East Coast. But at every stop there were rumors that Sinatra and Miss Farrow had married. The rumors were, at times, denied or ignored.

Then a third mate aboard the yacht, Robert A. Goldfarb, drowned Tuesday at Vineyard Harbor, Mass., when a small boat capsized.

The cruise also was marked by an erroneous report that Mrs. John F. Kennedy, widow of the president, had boarded the Yacht off Hyannis Port for a visit.
